To: Executive Cabinet
From: Rob Robinson: Vice-President
Re: Confrences

Dear Exec. Cab.

I regret that prior commitments have created a situation whereby I will be unable to attend todays emergency meeting. I did however, wish to include my oppinion. It is my feeling that we should attend the Leadership Institute in San Diego, October 6-8th. I feel that we should attend this confrence because it appears to offer some new leadership theories . I did some research and the best price (for Air fare) I could find was through Fun Time Travel in Rohnert Park.

Thank You ,
Rob Robinson

Highway Star

To hear the folks at Cisco Junior College, TX, tell it, even the Texas Highway Department recognizes the college's improving fortunes. After all, enrollment at the college has grown 25 percent since 1988, making it very much a rising star.

Truth is, Cisco Junior College in Cisco is located just north of Rising Star, TX, and shares an exit with the town.

Hold the Laugh Track

If we were thin-skinned, we might have been offended by the "Community College Bowl" segment on a recent episode of "Saturday Night Live," in which contestants from two fictitious two-year colleges failed to answer simple questions. Not only was the skit in bad taste, but it committed the cardinal sin of comedy — it failed to produce laughs.

We hate to see this once proud program sink so low, but we fondly remember its early years, where such comedic talents as John and Jim Belushi broke into the national spotlight. The Belushi brothers are products of the College of DuPage, IL, a community college.

With State Funding Support Dwindling, Community College Tuition on the Rise

By Bill Reinhard

A new report on college tuition tells a tale that both community college administrators and students already know: tuition bills are increasing.

The College Board last week said that average tuition at a public two-year college went up 13 percent this past year, from $906 in 1990-91 to $1,022 in 1991-92. That represents the biggest percentage tuition increase for a single year since the organization began compiling the figures.

College Board President Donald Stewart, a member of the AACJC Board, said in a prepared statement that state and local budget problems led to the tuition hikes.

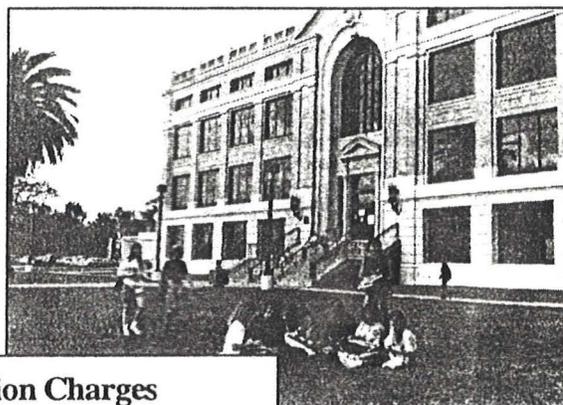

"Ironically, the nation is cutting funds for higher education at a time when its need for a well-educated workforce is growing," Stewart said. "At some point, we must realize that such cuts are short-sighted and counter-productive."

Community colleges remain the least expensive higher education institutions by a wide margin, despite the jump in tuition bills.

Although community college tuition remains less than half that of the average public four-year college ($2,137), and a fraction of that at an average private four-year college ($10,017), its percentage jump is the highest of any sector.

Independent junior college tuition increased at a lower rate than any other sector. Average tuition jumped 6 percent between 1990-91 and 1991-92, from $4,990 to $5,290. Tuition costs stand at slightly more than about half that of a private four-year college.

Delgado Community College, LA, is one of a handful of community colleges nationwide that has been able to avoid tuition increases. Most colleges have been forced to raise tuition to make up for cuts in state funding.

HEA Reauthorization Clears House Subcommittee, Makes Pell Grant Program into an Entitlement

by Frank Mensel

On the expectation that "peace dividends" will yet flow in the wake of global peace initiatives, the House Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education climaxed its markup of the Higher Education Act reauthorization by recasting the Pell Grant program as an entitlement.

The entitlement, which in effect guarantees the program benefit to all qualified applicants, was approved 17-9 over solid Republican opposition — a sharp departure from the strong tide of bipartisanship supporting most of the subcommittee's reauthorization decisions.

The Pell entitlement has long been a top priority with AACJC, ACCT and their Joint Commission on Federal Relations. AACJC and ACCT were perhaps the first national associations to urge that Pell Grants be made an entitlement.

Two other controversial provisions — the actual Pell Grant formula and the proposed direct loan program — were left to fuller debate in markup by the Education and Labor Committee, which is expected the last week of October.

Meanwhile, the Pell subcommittee in the Senate is planning to unveil its reauthorization bill and start markup in the last week of October. The Pell staff are keeping the details of the Senate draft closely guarded until that time.

Rep. William D. Ford, D-MI, who chairs both the Education and Labor Committee and its Postsecondary Subcommittee, intends to push the reauthorization through the House before the holiday recess. The version that eventually emerges from Senate Committee action may not reach the Senate floor until next year.

Neither version yet has an official number. The amended draft from the House Subcommittee will be officially introduced and reprinted with a bill number before it reaches the full Committee markup.

Because it does not yet have a number, readers who want to study Continued on page 9

Reform Bill Puts Planned Improvements for Missouri Education Before Electorate

By Thomas Kessler

KANSAS CITY, MO — On May 17, with only minutes remaining in the 1991 legislative session, the Missouri General Assembly passed an education reform bill, S. 353, that could mean a $385 million annual increase to education for the next decade.

It's now up to the state's voters, who will make the final decision in a referendum Nov. 5.

Metropolitan Community College Chancellor Bill Mann led a statewide coalition that successfully pushed the bill through the state legislature this past spring.

"People give me a lot of credit for this victory," Mann said. "I wonder how they'd act if it hadn't passed."

The legislative victory concludes more than three years of effort on Mann's part. He helped organize and mobilize a fragile consortium of 46 college CEOs — private, public, two- and four-year college leaders. He

Hate-Speech Code at U. of Wisconsin Voided by Court

Federal judge says policy
 violates First-Amendment rights

By MICHELE N-K COLLISON

A federal district judge has struck down a university hate-speech code, ruling that it violates students' First Amendment rights. The decision called into question a number of efforts by colleges nationwide to penalize students who use racist, sexist, and homophobic slurs against others.

The speech code, adopted by the Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin two years ago, barred slurs or epithets that were based on a person's race, sex, religion, sexual orientation, disability, or ethnic origin. The code said students would be penalized if the slurs created a "hostile learning environment" for someone.

Discipline for 9 Students

The American Civil Liberties Union filed suit on behalf of one of the university's student newspapers, the UWM Post, and on behalf of several students who believed the code violated their constitutional right to free speech. Since adopting the code, the university has disciplined nine students for making derogatory remarks.

Several other institutions have enacted codes or issued statements in recent years to deal with a rise in violence and harass-

A Mixed Message for Campuses Seen in Thomas Hearings

By LIZ McMILLEN

The wellspring of anger tapped by the Senate Judiciary Committee's hearings on Anita Hill's charges against Clarence Thomas may spur more women to challenge sexual harassment encountered in the classroom or the office. Just as many women, however, may refrain from voicing their discomfort for fear of being the victim of a smear campaign or labeled a false accuser.

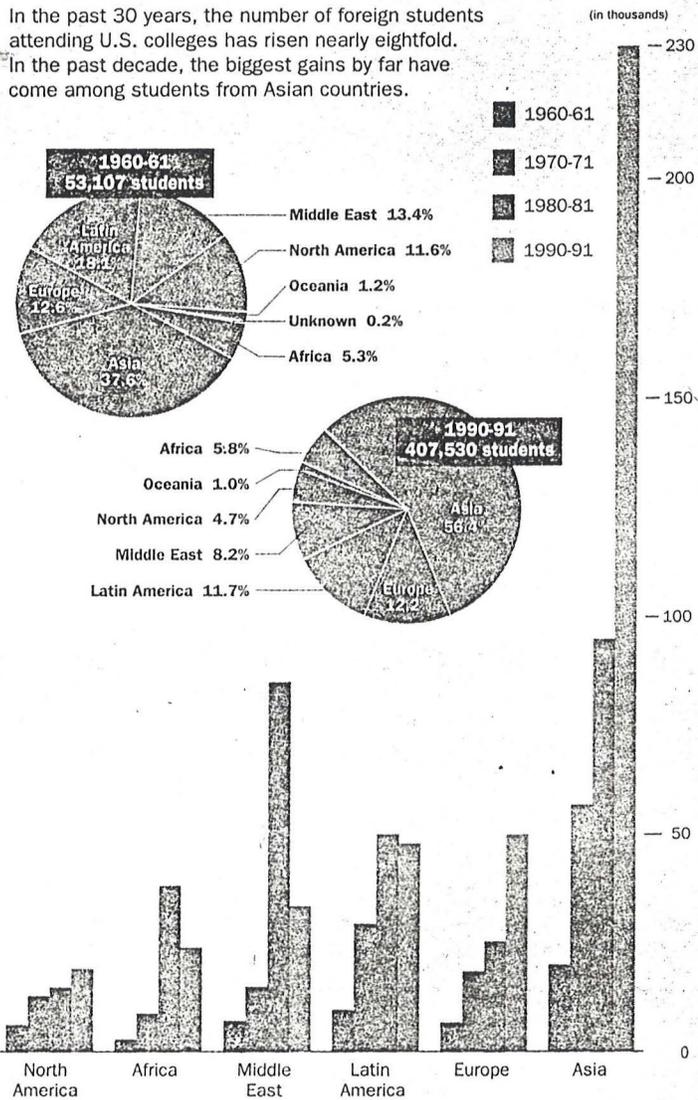

That is what many legal experts and others who study sexual harassment are calling the conflicting message of the Thomas confirmation hearings, a message that left women on college and university campuses in turn encouraged and dismayed: encouraged by the public dialogue that had opened on a sensitive and relatively unexplored subject, and dismayed, they said, by the tactics used to discredit Ms. Hill.

"Part of the deep tragedy in this is that it is doing both positive and negative things," said Donna M. Jones, director of the office of affirmative action and compliance at the University of Wisconsin at

Sharp Rise Reported in Public-College Tuition; Rate of Increase Drops at Private Institutions

By JEAN EVANGELAUF

Public-college tuition rose sharply this year, but the rate of increase of private-college tuition slowed, the College Board reported last week.

The board said that tuition and required fees at public institutions had climbed at double-digit rates for the first time in nearly a decade. (A table listing tuition at 2,900 colleges begins on Page A31.)

For undergraduates at public four-year institutions, the average tuition this year is $2,137, up 12 per cent over last year. For students at public community colleges tuition averages $1,022, 13 per cent more than last year.

Donald M. Stewart, president of the College Board, said the economic recession "has had an impact on all sectors of education, public and private."

"Although we haven't seen double-digit increases for public institutions since 1983, many people expected them this year because of the widely publicized cuts in state budgets," Mr. Stewart said. He called the budget cuts "shortsighted and counterproductive" in light of what he said was a

Wisconsin to Re-Tool Recruitment Plan as Minority Enrollment Dips 17%

MADISON, WIS.

The University of Wisconsin at Madison is hammering out a new recruitment strategy after the enrollment of new minority students on the campus dropped by 17 per cent this fall.

"What we have been doing to increase new minority enrollment has simply not worked," Donna E. Shalala, the university's chancellor, said in a statement.

Madison is in the fourth year of a five-year campaign to increase minority enrollment. Unveiled in 1988, the "Madison Plan" laid out goals for recruiting minority students and professors. It also included measures to improve campus race relations, such as an anti-harassment policy aimed at punishing offensive speech.

Since the plan began, enrollment of new minority students has seenawed—showing an increase one year and a decline the next. The university has focused its recruiting goals on black, Hispanic, and American Indian students. One goal has been to double the number of new freshmen and transfer students in these three groups from the 261 who were on the campus in 1987 to 522 by 1993.

This fall, however, the number of new minority students stands at only 252, down from 305 in 1990-91. Among the worst losses, the Chancellor Donna E. Shalala of U. of Wisconsin: "Our commitment to increasing minority enrollment is stronger than ever."

Campus officials said personnel turnover and state budget problems in the past year had contributed to the university's recruiting failures. Akbar Ally, coordinator of the Madison Plan and special assistant to the vice-chancellor for academic affairs, said a state-mandated hiring freeze had kept Madison from filling vacancies in the admissions office.

"I feel it was the turnover and the hiring freeze that really cramped our style," Mr. Ally said.

Mr. Ally also attributed the university's lack of progress to the small pool of qualified minority applicants in Wisconsin and the heavy competition for them from other colleges in Wisconsin, black colleges, out-of-state institutions, and the military.

Information on the number of minority professors hired this academic year is not yet available. Under the Madison Plan, the university hoped to have hired 70 black, Hispanic, and American Indian faculty members by this fall. As of last year, the university had hired 46 such faculty members but had lost 13 minority faculty members to other colleges or to retirement, among other reasons.

Ms. Shalala said the university was putting together a new team to improve student recruitment. Last month, the university hired a new admissions director, Millard Storey, formerly the admissions director at the University of Colorado at Boulder. It also is seeking to hire an associate admissions director who will work specifically on minority recruitment. In addition, Paul Barrows, special assistant to

"They decided to wait until failure was inevitable to turn to students, and say, 'Now we want your input.'"

the chancellor, has been named associate dean of the Graduate School, where he will work to improve minority recruitment.

Ms. Shalala said she hoped the new recruitment team would take a more creative approach. "Our commitment to increasing minority enrollment is stronger than ever," she said.

For some student leaders on the campus, however, the promise of a renewed commitment was too little, too late. Mario Mendoza, a senior who is director of racial and ethnic affairs for the Wisconsin Student Association, said many minority students felt they had had little voice in the Madison Plan.

Mr. Mendoza said the university might be having difficulty recruiting minority students in part because of the shift from grants to loans in federal financial aid. But he also said Madison continued to have a bad reputation as a result of racial incidents in past years.

Concern by Student Leaders

Ms. Shalala and other campus administrators met last week with some minority student leaders, including Mr. Mendoza. At that meeting, Mr. Mendoza said, the chancellor said she wanted to involve students more in the recruitment effort. "They decided to wait until failure was inevitable to turn to us, and say, 'Now we want your input,'" he said.

Student leaders are further concerned, Mr. Mendoza said, because the Madison Plan is set to expire by the end of 1992-93. He said the administration seemed to be steering away from setting new enrollment goals.

That's not necessarily so, according to Mr. Ally. The university is "looking at a sequel" to the Madison Plan, he said, and will be setting up committees to make recommendations on such issues as student and faculty recruitment. It is unclear whether new numerical goals will be set, he said, adding that students will be involved in the process. —DENISE K. MAGNER

Federal Judge's Decision Casts Doubt on Efforts by Colleges to Penalize Students Who Slur Others

ment directed at minority students, women, and homosexuals. Although they differ in some cases from the Wisconsin plan, they are essentially aimed at barring offensive speech or behavior. The institutions include Brown, Emory, Pennsylvania State, and Stanford Universities, and the Universities of California, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and Texas.

'Fighting-Words Doctrine'

Madison officials have not decided whether to appeal the judge's ruling. But officials at other institutions said colleges with similar hate-speech policies may postpone reviewing them until the Supreme Court rules in its current term on a Minnesota law that penalizes "hate crimes."

Madison officials argued that their speech code was defensible under the "fighting-words doctrine" established by the Supreme Court 49 years ago. In Chaplinsky v. New Hampshire, the Court ruled that fighting words—those that by their very utterance tend to incite violence—were not protected by the First Amendment.

Judge Robert W. Warren said Wisconsin's code did not meet that test. "The rule goes beyond the present scope of the fighting-words doctrine and is likely to allow the rule to apply to many situations where a breach of the peace is unlikely to occur," the judge wrote.

He added: "The problems of bigotry and discrimination sought to be addressed here are real and truly corrosive of the educational environment. But freedom of speech is almost absolute in our land. Content-based prohibitions such as that in the UW rule, however well intended, simply cannot survive the screening which our Constitution demands."

Mark Yudof: "There hasn't been a case where fighting words have been upheld in 40 years."

University officials said the judge's ruling meant they would have a more difficult time making the university a civil place. "They took a tool away from us that was useful in getting at the problem of harassment," said Patricia Hodelik, legal counsel for the University of Wisconsin system.

Several Racial Incidents

Added James E. Sulton, special assistant to the president for minority affairs: "Everyone seems more concerned about the theoretical abridgment of First Amendment rights than about the real abridgment of rights based on racial harassment."

James E. Sulton: There's too little concern about "abridgment of rights based on racial harassment."

Wisconsin's code was approved as part of a plan to increase the number of minority students on the campus and to create greater awareness of their cultures. "Design for Diversity" plan came in response to several highly publicized racial incidents at the university, including a fraternity "slave auction" in which pledges in black face performed skits parodying black entertainers.

The Wisconsin case was the second in which a federal district judge struck down a campus hate-speech code. In 1989, a judge barred a University of Michigan policy aimed at preventing discrimination or harassment of students. The judge said the code was too broad. Michigan's policy prohibited speech that was directed at either an individual or at a group of people.

Officials at Wisconsin tried to avoid the legal problems that Michigan had encountered, by shaping a narrower policy that penalized only slurs and epithets directed at an individual. "We tried to create a policy with as many teeth in it as possible without bumping up against constitutional law," said Mr. Sulton. "It's frustrating after going through the gyrations of getting a rule that is fair and correct."

'Courts Have Drawn the Line'

Although the lawyer for the Wisconsin students said he understood the university's predicament, he said students' freedom of speech must be protected. "We've had two case rulings now, and in both cases the university was struck down," said Jeffrey J. Kassel, a Madison lawyer who argued the case on behalf of the ACLU. "The courts have drawn the line—students cannot be punished for things that they say."

College officials elsewhere said they believed other institutions would hesitate to put anti-harassment codes in place now. "I don't think we will see a lot of people putting forth these policies," said Terrell Jones, deputy vice-provost at Pennsylvania State University. "What we can do is restricted. A student has the right to be a jerk."

Avoiding Slurs and Epithets

Pennsylvania State has adopted a statement that officials there believe may avoid challenges. Students who use slurs and epithets are punished only if they are found to have violated another section of the university's code of conduct.

The University of Texas at Austin has a similar policy. Mark Yudof, dean of the School of Law at the University of Texas at Austin, said Wisconsin's code was "a bad approach." He said he agreed with the judge, and added: "There is no proof that exception to free speech has any currency in current law. There hasn't been a case where fighting words have been upheld in 40 years."

Others said universities could still write codes that are within constitutional parameters. The codes could cover only such offenses as the intentional infliction of emotional distress and speech that would insure that violence would occur. "But they would reach such a small amount of the problems that would occur that they would be ineffective," said Elsa K. Cole, general legal counsel for the University of Michigan. ■

GAYE LeBARON'S NOTEBOOK

'Why aren't they in the portables?'

According to a growing and increasingly vocal body of social critics in this country, America's children are at the short end of every measuring stick we use to calculate progress. Frightening numbers are ill-fed, poorly tended, without adequate health care and, most assuredly lacking in an education worthy of — and necessary for — a democratic nation.

When pressed for explanations, legislators and bureaucrats respond with budget shortfall answers. There is no question that our children deserve better but, the money simply isn't there. More astute observers of our society might point out that this is a poor excuse, at best. It is all the things we have decided to do with our money rather than spending it on children that has made the difference.

My old friend Sam the Shark is one of these astute observers. Sam, as readers know, can be flippant and sometimes a mite sarcastic about evils and aberrations in our Sonoma County society. But, like the rest of us, Sam is quite capable of outright outrage when the occasion demands. When he stopped in to see me on Monday afternoon, he was talking about our children, our education system and what he perceived to be a giant symbol of our skewed priorities. And he wasn't joking.

SAM HAD just paid his first visit to the new (last year) building that houses the Sonoma County Office of Education. You may remember there was some small notice taken when the 140 people — administrators, special education teachers, psychologists and others who provide support services to the 39 school districts in the county — moved into a $6.5 million, 56,000-square-foot building near the county airport.

The glass walls, the landscaping, the PAR course, the walking paths (both amenities of the adjoining business park) drew complaints from citizens who questioned the need for such a "palace." Teachers, frustrated by crowded classrooms, lack of textbooks, temporary buildings that have become permanent and a drastic shortage of such essentials as paper and pencils, muttered about the size, the comparative luxury of the interior.

But, for the most part, taxpayers paid little attention. The average citizen has no reason to visit the education office and, except for driving past on the way to the airport, might never see or know about that building.

Sam was like that. Until an errand sent him that way on Monday morning. He came directly here from his visit. And he was in a state. "I have just seen that building," he began. "And it is obscene! While our children are in 10-year-old portables, the education bureaucrats are working in luxury. Why aren't THEY in portables? I'm livid!"

"I can tell you are livid," I said. "Calm down. It can't be as bad as all this."

"Can't it?" said my visitor, making a visible effort to control his anger. "Can't it really?" And away he went into his description.

"The longer I sat in that building, the madder I got. There's an elegant entryway and long, wide (empty) halls. It's not teeming with activity. In fact, I saw very few people. There's a big lunch room with glass all along one wall and around a corner, looking out over a landscaped yard with trees and flowers. Wall-to-wall carpet on the floors. When I saw the big meeting room with a long curved desk overlooking an audience area I couldn't help but think of the high schools in the county that use their hard-surfaced, clattery cafeterias for theaters.

"All over this county, students are crowded into portables they have had for years. The halls of high schools and middle schools are jammed, noisy and intimidating. Since the passage of Proposition 13 (1978), teachers have had to perform such balancing acts as adhering to strict quotas on the copy machines while attempting to provide students without textbooks with written materials.

"What I saw just isn't right," said Sam. "School officials should not have carpets and landscaping when children have little heat and no air-conditioning, buckets to catch the leaks in the roof, not enough desks and not enough aides to help the ones who don't speak English."

SAM, as you may have noticed, approaches life with a certain passion. In the interest of fairness, we dispatched a professional spy to the building yesterday. Her written report was more moderate. "Modern and efficient-looking, not overly opulent but it doesn't look as if they scrimped on anything either. It is peaceful, the views are nice. Several conference rooms were in use by groups of varying sizes. Half a dozen people were eating in the lunchroom. It has the feeling of a place where people can work efficiently and comfortably, which is what a 'support organization' needs."

County School Superintendent Marv Adams claims there actually has been very little flak from teachers and school administrators about the building "because people are so pleased with the working space it offers them. The facility is really tremendously utilized."

Some of the funding for the building was mandated for office use but there is also $2.8 million in the structure that came from the sale of education office property in Windsor that could have been assigned another use. Sam would argue that it should have been. But Adams says that the citizens' perception of the building varies (as we've just seen) according to whether "they look at it short term or long term. This building is an investment for the future of education in the county," he says, adding that it was a value for the price, costing some $45 per square foot less than the average school structure."

Both Adams and the county schools assistant superintendent for business, Jerry Johnson, acknowledge that there is reason for Sam's anger. "There is some truth," said Adams, "to the charge that children come last. But circumstances arise. If we had not been caused to vacate the buildings at the county center, we'd be there yet, paying $12 per foot rent. I don't have an answer."

Johnson, too, understands the feeling that priorities are out of order. "The timing could have been better," he says ruefully.

Truth is, Sam, that building is not what's wrong with education. But it is a symbol of at least one thing that's wrong — the decision to spend the money was never really questioned by the people in charge. It was one more bureaucratic decision that has resulted in the perception, if nothing else, that the system is leaning away from the students. The answers are far more complex than trading carpets for portables. They are in a re-examination and re-structuring of the entire system. So when do we begin?

College

college district chancellor.

With a projected state budget deficit looming, new cuts are expected.

"Every indication we get from Sacramento is that we will (have to make cuts)," said California State University Chancellor Barry Munitz. "If we start limiting enrollment and raising fees, then we will begin closing the door on those very students we've been trying to attract over the years — minorities and women — for whom a college education has finally become accessible."

Students, some of whom sit on classroom floors in overcrowded classes, are rallying alongside faculty at colleges throughout Southern California protesting any future cuts.

"What really terrifies me is what will happen to my 12-year-old sister," said Tom Minear, a student at Valley College in the Los Angeles suburb of Van Nuys. "By the time she gets old enough to go to college, there may not be any colleges for her, or at least any colleges she can afford."

Though colleges and universities across the country have felt the crunch of the recession, the cut-backs seem particularly painful in California because of the commitment it made in 1960, said Warren Fox, director of the California Postsecondary Education Commission, a planning and coordinating agency for higher education appointed by the governor and Legislature.

"We are doing everything we can to preserve the (promise)."

DAVID MERTES, CHANCELLOR, COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

The Master Plan of Higher Education divided California's colleges into three systems — the University of California, the California State University and California Community Colleges. It also made California the first state in the nation to commit itself to making a college education accessible to everyone.

State Sen. Gary Hart, D-Santa Barbara, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said that the Legislature will have to re-examine the master plan again next year as they consider the state's budget.

"We are going to have to decide what to do about our commitment to higher education," Hart said. "Even if we come out of the recession, the conclusion may be we cannot honor this commitment to all students and some changes will have to be made."

Maureen DiMarco, secretary of child development and education to California Gov. Pete Wilson, said the master plan may be savable, but only if major reforms are made throughout the state's budget.

"We've got to stop trying to patch a fiscal system that does not work and take a look at it from scratch," DiMarco said.

Under the master plan, the University of California system, with nine campuses, accepts the top 12.5 percent of the state's high school graduates for admissions.

The California State University system accepts the top third of state applicants and everyone has access to the community colleges.

"People across the country and around the world come to California to take a look at our system," Fox said. "Now the master plan is in question because of fiscal limitations."

Faced with a $14.6 billion deficit, Wilson last summer ordered drastic cuts across the board, including in education. The UC's annual budget was cut by 1.1 percent to $2.1 billion, the CSU's annual budget was cut 3.2 percent to $1.6 billion, and the community colleges' budget cut by 1.3 percent to $1.7 billion.

The effects of the cuts were dramatic, particularly on the educational systems which together serve about 2 million students and expect more students every year.

Officials predict that by the year 2005, California's colleges will have an additional 800,000 students.

The UC system, which currently serves about 166,500 students, raised student fees by 40 percent to $2,274 a year, froze all salaries and gave nearly 3,500 employees early retirement, including more than 650 faculty members.

The CSU system, which serves about 369,000 students, raised fees by 20 percent to $936 a year, cut more than 4,000 classes and laid off more than 1,000 faculty members. Additionally, more than 2,000 part-time teachers were not rehired and 11 of the systems 20 campuses have closed their spring semester admissions.

* The community colleges, which educate more than 1.5 million students a year, cut about 5,000 classes and raised fees 20 percent to $120 a year.

"Whatever wiggle room we had has been eliminated," said William D. Campbell, chairman of the CSU's board of trustees.

Despite a mandate that says the state's 107 community colleges must enroll whomever applies, Mertes said "a very conservative estimate" is that more than 100,000 students were turned away this year because they could not find the classes they need.

"By law, we cannot not enroll a student, but they leave us when they can't find a classroom," Mertes said. "The irony is we have the classroom space, but we just don't have the money for the teachers."

Compounding the problem is the fact the community colleges have admitted more than 88,000 students than the state is obligated to fund.

"We are the last line of higher education in the state, and students can't get education without us, there is no other option," Mertes said.

Donald G. Phelps, chancellor of the Los Angeles Community College District — which with nine colleges and more than 110,000 students is the largest in the state — estimated his district turned away at least 50,000 students this year.

Valley College president Maureen Lee said at least 1,000 of the students came from her school, the largest in the Los Angeles community college district with more than 20,000 students.

CSA TRANSPORTATION CONTEST

WHAT IS THE PROBLEM???

- * There are not enough parking spaces between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the S.R.J.C. campus for the first eight weeks of each semester.
- * There is a growing shortage of parking spaces due to increased enrollments and unit loads.
- * The problem is increasing in the length of time the campus is negatively impacted each year.
- * The problem has been exacerbated with the loss of 1600+ on-street parking spaces over the past two years.
- * After spending $1.9 million and adding 484 new spaces over the past few years, we now have 1116 fewer spaces.

WHAT ARE SOME OF THE MAJOR CONSTRAINTS TO A SOLUTION???

- * Lack of available land on and around the S.R.J.C. campus.
- * The cost of land off-site ranges from $175,000 to $350,000 per acre.
- * Flat surfaces construction costs are $3,000 per space.
- * Parking structure construction is $10,000 to 12,000 per space, if you own the land.
- * The Public Transit System does not adequately meet the needs of students who must move to several locations throughout the day and throughout the county (home to school, school to work, work to home or other errands).
- * By law, parking and transportation programs must be "self-supporting".

WHAT HAVE WE DONE THAT WORKS???

- * The shuttle system to off-site parking lot (Veterans Memorial Building) has had excellent utilization during the first seven to eight weeks of the semester. Over 400 students used the Veterans Memorial Building parking lot at various times. As many as 300+ students and staff have used it on some school days.
- * The Public Transit reduced fare program has seen an increase in participation over the past two years, but it could and should be more successful than at its current state.

WHY DON'T WE RECOMMEND BUILDING A MULTI-STORY PARKING STRUCTURE ON OR NEAR CAMPUS???

- * Parking structures are extremely expensive ($10,000 to 12,000 per space versus $3,000 for flat surface parking).
- * If we were to build a 750 space (3 story) structure on campus, we could net under present circumstances, 500 new spaces since we would have to build on top of an existing lot.
- * Currently, the S.R.J.C. campus and access streets are heavily congested at key times and locations, a multi-story parking structure would increase traffic density and congestion to levels unacceptable to the city and to the college.
- * Given the cost of a new structure, we would need to raise fees well beyond the legal maximum of $80 per year. This would require special legislation.

WHAT DO WE (THE PARKING COMMITTEE) RECOMMEND???

- * ESTABLISH AN ON-GOING PARKING AND TRANSPORTATION PROGRAM, WHICH WILL BE BUILT ON THE ASSUMPTION THAT ECONOMIC CHOICE MAY INDUCE PARKING BEHAVIOR MODIFICATIONS.
- * ESTABLISH THE GOAL OF DIVERTING AT LEAST 1000 SOLO STUDENT DRIVERS FROM THE S.R.J.C. ON CAMPUS LOTS.

HOW CAN WE MEET THESE GOALS???

- * Expand the shuttle system to a 10 month operation and increase daily users to 500.
- * Increase Public Transit ridership to 365 round-trips per day.
- * Develop a two-tier ride share/preferential parking program for students and staff.
- * Adding major bicycle program improvements including additional bike racks and lockers.
- * Acquiring and constructing new parking spaces, over time, at locations which support the shuttle system and/or are within walking distance to the campus.
- * Marketing all Parking and Transportation programs more effectively.
- * Adjusting the Parking and Transportation Program to meet the changing needs students and staff, and to have the Parking and Transportation Program's progress evaluated quarterly by the Parking Committee, which will then report to the Board of Trustees twice per academic year.
- * Keeping in close contact with City and County officials with the hope of assisting students in gaining additional rider discounts.

MALCOM X was a dynamic advocate of Black Nationalism and a pioneer in articulating a vigorous self-defense against white violence. Born Malcom Little in Omaha, Neb., he became a rebellious youth after the death of his father in 1931, who was murdered for advocating the ideas of Marcus Garvey. Eventually, he drifted to New York City, where he became involved in Harlem's underworld of drugs and prostitution. In prison from 1946 to 1952, he read widely and was converted to the teachings of Elijah Muhammad. On his release, he embraced the Black Muslim movement and changed his name to Malcom X. Though he became the leading spokesman for the Black Muslims, ideological clashes developed between Malcom and the conservative Elijah Muhammad, and in 1963, he was suspended as a minister of the Black Muslims. After a pilgrimage to Mecca, he announced that he had become an orthodox muslim and founded the rival Organization for Afro-American Unity. His travel in the Middle East and Africa gave him a more optimistic view regarding potential brotherhood between black and white Americans. Malcom no longer preached separation between races, but rather a sociological revolution. He was shot and killed on February 21, 1965 by assassins thought to be connected with the Black Muslims.

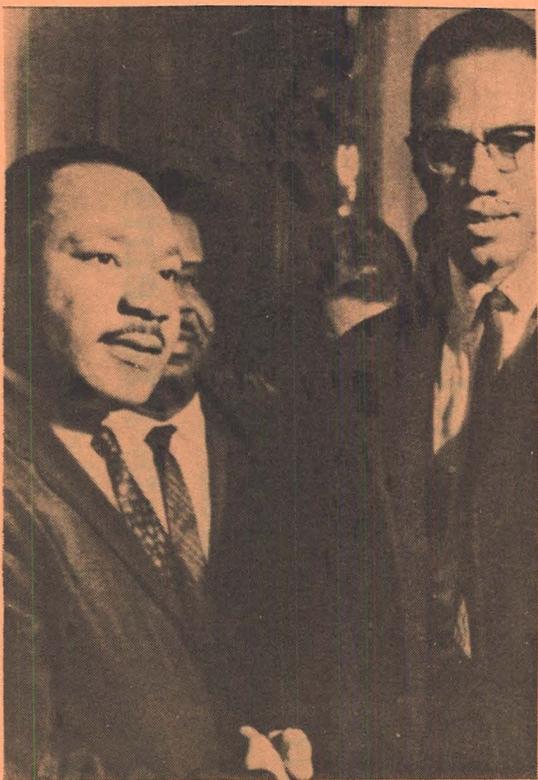

MARTIN LUTHER KING, Jr. dedicated his life to the fight for full citizenship rights of the poor, disadvantaged, and racially oppressed. King was first catapulted into national prominence in 1955, after successfully organizing the Montgomery bus boycott. He studied the teachings of Mahatma Gandhi and further developed the use of non-violent civil disobedience. In 1960, he accepted co-pastorship with his father of the Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta and became president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. He led major campaigns in Albany, Ga., Birmingham, Ala., Danville, Va., and organized the massive march on Washington, where, on August 28, 1963 he delivered his brilliant "I Have a Dream" speech. In January, 1964, Time magazine chose him Man of the Year, the first black American so honored. Later that year he became the youngest recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize. In support of voter-registration, he led the harrowing march from Selma to Montgomery in March, 1965. Along with demands for stronger civil and voting rights legislation and for a meaningful anti-poverty budget, he also spoke out against the Vietnam war. In the midst of organizing a poor people's march to Washington, he flew to Memphis, Tenn. to assist striking sanitation workers. There, on April 4, 1968, King was felled by an assassin's bullet.

In this moving and thought provoking work, playwright Jeff Stetson imagines for us what a clandestine meeting might have been like between two of the most influential men of their times: Martin Luther King and Malcom X. February, 1965. A shabby Harlem hotel room becomes the backdrop for this momentous confrontation between King, Baptist minister, Nobel Prize winner, and champion of non-violent protest, and Malcom, advocate of self-defense through any means necessary, and himself the center of factional warring within his own Muslim faith. Within a week, Malcom will be assassinated, and in three short years Dr. King will also become martyred to the crusade for freedom. But in this historic moment, the audience becomes privy to what might have been. The play examines both the public and the private lives: the clash of ideas and tactics for the advancement of freedom, but also the humanity of two devout men of faith, loving fathers and husbands, and leaders willing to lay down their lives for the cause of justice.

FROM: PRESIDENT
SUBJECT: Non-Resident Tuition 1992-93	DATE 1-14-92
REASON FOR BOARD CONSIDERATION ACTION	ENCLOSURES 1 of 2

BACKGROUND

Education Code Section 76140 requires the establishment of a non-resident tuition fee rate by February 1 of each year. The basis for establishing the rate may be:

- ① Statewide current expenses of education rate $104
- 2. District current expense of education rate $104
- 3. No more than contiguous district $121
- 4. No more than District basis or no less than the statewide basis $104

For 1992-93, the District may add an additional amount for capital outlay per Education Code 76141(a). The amount, $4, is based on 1990-91 capital outlay expenditures and must be expended for capital outlay.

Contiguous district's rates are: Marin, $121; Napa Valley, not available; Mendocino-Lake, $113; and, Redwoods, $117.

HEALTH SERVICES BUDGET UPDATE
HEALTH SERVICES ADVISORY COMMITTEE
DECEMBER 3, 1991

BACKGROUND

In March of 1988, the Board of Trustees, in response to the passage of AB 2336, approved the administrative recommendation to resume levying health fees to support the operation of Health Services. The fee was initiated with Summer Session, 1988, and, during the Fall of 1988, the Board approved adjustments in the level of the fee and increased the number of waived groups beyond those required by statute. The issue of health fees has not been addressed by the District since November 1988 although the March 1988 policy made it possible to review the fee annually.

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE ANALYSIS, 1988-91

Income

Health fee revenues have been impacted by a number of factors. The Board approved changes in the health fee level and waiver groups had a significant detrimental effect. In the Fall of 1988, prior to the changes, total income was $121,961. The following semester, with a larger enrollment, total income was $96,506. This difference seems to be more a factor of the restructuring of the fee schedule than the increase in exemptions. Although there were more students paying the full time fee, the part time fee was dropped by two dollars per student. Therefore, with an enrollment increase of 8.4% and waived income increase of 14%, total income fell by $25,455 or 21%.

Another significant factor has been the increase in the number of BFAP recipients. Between 1988-89 and 1990-91, overall enrollment increased approximately 9%, but the increase in BFAP recipients for this same period was 34%. In 1990-91, an estimated $45,000 in income was lost due to the exemptions for those granted Board Financial Aid.

Enrollment trends have also affected health fee income. According to the September 1991 Board Enrollment report, non credit enrollees, a group that do not pay health fees, have increased by 92% since 1986 while credit enrollment has increased only 26%. During this same period, the statistics show that the majority of students enroll in one class each semester. The largest percentage enrollment growth is in the number of students taking one to three classes, and those students are more likely to pay the $3.00 health fee for students taking 6 units or less.

Expenditures

The largest expenditure growth has been in non controllable costs: salaries, benefits and student accident insurance premiums. Three quarters of the Health Services budget is spent in salaries and benefits, and these costs alone have increased by 24% since 1988-89.

The District makes the commitments that affect these costs, but, as a categorical program, Health Services is expected to absorb the increases and live within our income

Health Services' cost for the student accident insurance premium for 1991-92 is $30,998, an 11% increase over 1990-91. The rate of inflation in the health care industry has consistently been twice the national average, and that increase, as well as the more complex needs of our students, creates pressure on our supply accounts. We have been able to hold spending within our allocation for supplies, but, without income growth, we will be forced to make budget cuts in this area next year. In practical terms, that will result in measures such as less medication dispensed to ill students, fewer physician clinics and reduced supplies of health education materials.

The Board approved a pilot mental health program for SRJC students for 1990-91 and 1991-92. At present, that program is providing assistance to students who might otherwise not be successful in meeting their educational goals. The two year pilot has required expenditure of $60,000 from the restricted account, and the program reports indicate that students are being effectively and efficiently served. If there is no change in the income picture, funding Student Psychological Services for 1992-93 would virtually exhaust the reserves, and this would not be a prudent decision in spite of the apparent need for service.

CURRENT FEE SCHEDULE

Fall/Spring semester	$7.50	Students taking > 6.5 units
	$3.00	Students taking < 6.5 units
Summer Session	$5.00	Students taking > 3.5 units
	$3.00	Students taking < 3.5 units

Waived groups include:

EC 72246: BFAP recipients, students in certain apprenticeship training programs and students who request waivers because they depend exclusively on prayer for healing.

District decisions: students enrolled under special College-approved agency contracts and/or agreements, students enrolled in overseas programs approved by the College, students who are in an incarcerated status.

SRJC CAMPUS CHILDREN'S CENTER

INFORMATION SHEET

1. What is our function on this campus?

The campus Children's Centers serve low income student families by providing care for their children while parents take classes, study and work. Additionally, the centers serve as model training/practicum sites for Child Development students. Child development classes also use the classrooms for other course related work. Last semester over 1,000 observations of children by college students took place. Other departments with related course work are welcome to use our facility.

2. Who do we serve?

Admission to the campus child care center is strictly prioritized by State Dept. of Education guidelines. These priorities in order are:

- A. Siblings of children already enrolled
- B. Children at Risk of Abuse and Neglect (active Child Protective Services clients)
- C. Lowest per capita income.

We presently have 67 children from 57 families enrolled at two sites. Our Infant/Toddler/Twos Center located in the Lounibus lot has up to 27 children aged 6 mos. to 3 yrs. on-site at a time. The Pre-school center, in the Bech Temporaries has up to 30 children aged 3-5 yrs on site at one time.

3. Is there a waiting list?

Presently there are approximately 400 children on the waiting list. In Fall semester we added 90+ new names to that list. When a family calls to be placed on the list we collect information about their income. If they are not low income they are referred to other agencies and not placed on our waiting list. We admit about 20-30 new children each academic year.

4. What about program and program quality?

Our faculty and staff are dedicated to providing the highest quality program we can. We recognize that we have a responsibility to the parents, Child Development students, and the children to make our program a model for the community. We are licensed by the State Dept. of Social Services and annually complete a Program Quality Review. Additionally, this year we are undergoing Accreditation by the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs. All of these reviews and self-reviews reflect our dedication to providing an optimal experience for young children and their families.

In addition to providing a quality cognitive and social/emotional experience for young children we focus on children's health and nutrition issues. Each year we serve over 18,000 meals to children. Each child also receives vision and hearing screenings. Referrals are made to other health services in the community when appropriate.

We also recognize that parenting is the most difficult job a parent will face. We provide support in a number of ways to each parent, including: conferences, referrals to health and mental health programs, and parenting classes in conjunction with the Child Development instructional program.

5. What do child care services cost?

All services are provided on a sliding scale. Presently, all of our families place so low on the income scale that we have received no income from parent fees this academic year. Last year we collected approximately $2,000 all year from all the families.

6. What about your budget?

Funding from this program comes from a variety of sources, each with it's own regulations and guidelines.

Source	Amount	% of Total
Child Dev. Division (SDE)	$173,990	52.4
Child Care Food Prog. (SDE)	20,500	6.2
SRJC District Funds	133,076	40.0
Parent Fees	1,500	<1
Interest	2,000	<1
ASB Contribution	1,000	<1

7. What kind of impact does your program have on SRJC?

Though it is a generalization, it is safe to say that without this program none of the families enrolled in the campus children's programs would be able to attend SRJC. Because of this program they are able to get an education and job skills and become self reliant. Academically, these financially impoverished, single mothers outperform the average SRJC student. In Fall semester 48 % of the enrolled parents had a GPA of 3.0 or better. Seven of the fifty seven enrolled parents had a 4.0 GPA. To stay enrolled all parents must make satisfactory academic progress. Parents averaged a 12 unit, or full time load. Their attendance at SRJC indirectly helps generate approximately $180,000 in ADA income.

Additionally, the campus Children's Centers employ 20-25 student workers per academic year.

8. Will services expand?

Presently the district is planning on building a new Child Development facility that will more than double the size of the present one. Passage of the June 1992 bond issue will help ensure construction. It is unclear as to whether more subsidies for students will be available at that time.

T H E M E E T I N G

Imagine what a meeting between Dr. Martin Luther King and Malcolm X might have been like...In this moving work by playwright Jeff Stetson, the audience becomes privy to what might have been. Two of the most influential men of their time meet in a shabby Harlem hotel room. Their differences and similarities stand out in forceful relief. We examine their public and private lives: the clash of ideas and tactics, the humanity of two devout men of faith, leaders who will soon lay down their lives for the cause of justice.

How Undergraduates Can Succeed: Study Together, and in Small Classes

By ANTHONY DePALMA

College students who study together, meet frequently with advisers and enroll in at least one small class every semester are most likely to excel, according to a report being made public today by Harvard University.

The report, which is expected to influence the way many courses are taught at other colleges and universities, also found that contrary to popular notions about college top students prefer courses that require substantial amounts of writing. They also consider foreign language courses, where classes are small and there is frequent interaction between teacher and students, close to being an academic ideal, the report found.

After five years of study the Harvard researchers concluded that the most effective strategy for an undergraduate to pursue is to make alliances with fellow students, faculty members and advisers, and not try to brave college alone.

"The thing for a student to avoid," said Richard J. Light, a professor of education at Harvard who was director of the assessment project, "is signing up for all large classes, drifting in and out anonymously, sitting in the eighth row working quietly and then going back to the library or a dorm room and applying the seat of the pants to the seat of the chair."

A Five-Year Assessment

The report is the second of two parts of a five-year assessment of what constitutes effective teaching and learning at Harvard and, by extension, at all universities. The first part of the assessment, published last year, found that students learned better and professors were more effective in courses where progress could be tracked through frequent tests, quizzes and one-minute exams at the end of a lesson. Some of its findings and recommendations have been widely copied.

Richard J. Light, a Harvard professor and director of the assessment project, recommends avoiding anonymity in large classes.

A new report at Harvard offers tips for students and professors.

ing in all kinds of settings," said Claire L. Gaudiani, president of Connecticut College, a private liberal arts college in New London. Dr. Gaudiani said that in 1990 she encouraged all faculty members at her college to examine the first report and consider following some of its suggestions, and would do the same with the second report.

The report being made public today contains some recommendations that are simple and easy to adopt. Among them are these:

¶When students are unwilling or unable to organize into study groups that meet outside the classroom, professors ought to set up such groups and require that readings be completed before the groups meet.

¶In courses with several writing assignments, professors should ask a few students each week to prepare their papers early so they can be photocopied and distributed for class discussion. Researchers found this encourages students to work harder on their papers and enhances the level of class discussions.

¶Students should not try to get all their required classes out of the way as soon as possible, but each semester should mix in at least one small group or seminar class.

¶Professors in science and mathematics should encourage cooperative learning and study groups rather than place too much importance on competitive grades, which drives interested nonmajors from the field.

Faculty Accessibility

The researchers also found that while students were generally satisfied with their professors' availability during office hours, they did not feel comfortable trying to talk informally to faculty members about personal matters, a failing that often contributed to a sense of dissatisfaction with the academic environment.

Harvard officials concede the shortcoming. "It is clearly the case that some faculty could do a better job of making themselves more accessible," said David Pilbeam, associate dean for undergraduate education at Harvard. But he said it was up to the students to buttonhole busy professors.

"We don't have Mr. Chips here," he said. "If students want that, they should go somewhere else, to a small liberal arts college."

Among the institutions that studied the first report was the State University of New York at Plattsburgh. Henry C. Morlock, a professor of psychology there, said he has incorporated the one-minute exam into his introductory course, calling it "one of those nice little tricks, effortless and cheap, that tells me what's not getting across to the students."

Group Study Teams

This is one of the hardest things in teaching to know, especially in large classes, he said, adding, "In small classes you can see the puzzled looks on their faces and ask what's wrong, but you can't do that in a big lecture."

Even in small liberal arts colleges, where large classes are not an issue, the first report prompted change. Bonnie Allison, a professor of child development at Connecticut College, said that after reading the report she was especially impressed with the projected effectiveness of group study teams, which are common in law school settings but not in undergraduate courses.

For her "Children and Society" class, she said, she organizes the 14 students into four groups. Each group is assigned a different Supreme Court case involving children's issues. After reading the decision and determining its most important points, the students present it to the class.

"I read the case more carefully and took very clear notes because I knew I would have to give a presentation about it," said Kristina L. Putalik, a child development major from Armonk, N.Y., who studied a 1986 case on high school students' First Amendment rights. She and the three other members of her group met in the college library to go over the case, and then spent 45 minutes discussing what it meant.

In a recent class Ms. Putalik gave the background of the case and the others presented the legal implications, and all four fielded questions from their classmates. Then the next study group presented a different case, which the class later discussed.

Ms. Putalik said she came away with a deeper understanding of the issues and a firmer grasp of the cases. "I just find that I learn better from discussions and talking to other people about the same material," she said.

TOM PETERS ON EXCELLENCE

Beware zipped lips, exultation of order

The United States was invented against authority (the British crown). Lambasting government is our most noble heritage. Heaven knows, government provides us with lots of opportunities!

But governance (political, religious, corporate) is one slippery task. At its core, it demands an analysis of the nature of man — inherently evil and in need of constant policing, or inherently good, thence best left alone? My distinctly illiberal training in engineering hardly qualifies me to say. Kant, Hegel, Aquinas and Rousseau were notably absent from our curriculum.

I've got a point of view, though. I've been around, after all, for about a quarter of the life of our Bill of Rights, which quietly marked its 200th anniversary 10 days before the demise of the Soviet Union.

Warts and all, our system of governance is an out-and-out miracle. And there are warts. We're too regulated "here." Not regulated enough "there." The definition of "here" and "there" varies, of course, depending on whether you're an Alan Simpson Republican, a Jesse Jackson Democrat, or the rare fan of perennial presidential candidate Harold Stassen.

But the basic American model is in good working order. And make no mistake: Its cornerstone is individual liberty and the right to be obstreperous. "Free speech is the whole thing, the whole ballgame," author Salman Rushdie said during his unexpected public appearance at Columbia University last December. "Free speech is life itself." Let me make the business connection clear. Corporate and political governance have lots in common. Fundamentally, governance is governance, even if the consequences of the political variety are more profound.

Or are they? Aren't issues of liberty and the nature of man as important within corporations that make up the economy as they are in the political arena? Arguably yes, since satisfactory economic performance is one of the best, if not the best, guarantor of political freedom in the long run.

In "Make No Law: The Sullivan Case and the First Amendment," New York Times columnist Anthony Lewis examines the history of the right to speak out in the U.S. (Did you know, for instance, that the Sedition Act of 1798 was President John Adams' politically motivated effort to jail newspaper editors supporting Thomas Jefferson? Jefferson and James Madison even feared that Adams wanted (ital) them (end ital) behind bars.)

Jefferson believed "that democratic government requires the acceptance of risk and change," Lewis writes. Justice Louis Brandeis agreed, in a statement every CEO should heed: "Those who won our independence were no political cowards. They did not fear political change. They did not exalt order at the cost of liberty." Alter those last words just a bit — make it, "They did not exalt order at the cost of innovation" — and you define the problem with cowardly, order-loving, innovation-fearing, big corporate chieftains. For example, Richard Preston, author of "American Steel," attributes that industry's catastrophe to a "gross failure of imagination" by leaders at the likes of USX. Change the name on the letterhead to IBM, General Motors or Sears, and the diagnosis stays the same.

Justice Brandeis didn't stop with order vs. liberty. In a comment even more relevant to corporate governance, he added that "The greatest menace to freedom is an inert people." Once more, his political commentary reflects a pillar of modern corporate malaise. I.e.: "The greatest menace to corporate performance is inert workers, not allowed to use their heads and participate fully in the operations and governance of the company."

But the Bill of Rights, and especially the First Amendment, is ultimately about keeping the American experiment alive by countenancing the most intemperate criticism of those who govern. "The . . . right to criticize either by temperate reasoning, or by immodest and indecent invective," Judge Learned Hand observed, ". . . is the ultimate source of (citizens') authority." Muted criticism of the commercial flavor has killed many a corporation. My experience with big-boardroom America is one of calm in the midst of the worst storms: That is, scandalous denial, sometimes for a decade or more, of the maelstrom that's upon us.

Judge Hand also wisely added that free speech is "a precarious gift." So it was. Is. Shall be. And in corporate America, if you watch even young Silicon Valley companies ossifying almost overnight, you realize just how precious — and precarious — is the gift of spunk, feistiness and "indecent invective" (i.e., rude disagreement with the chief).

One of our wisest CEOs,

Quad/Graphic's Harry Quadracci, says the big boss should be "the main dis-organizer. Everybody 'manages' quite well. Whenever anything goes wrong, they take immediate action to make sure nothing will go wrong again. The problem is, nothing new will ever happen, either." Jefferson would have smiled.

Beware muted criticism! Beware an inert work force! It turns out that the very special bunch who pondered the governance of the United States 200 years ago have a lot to teach today's top corporate governors. Above all, to retain vitality, err — and err wildly — on the side of raucous dissent and innovative disorder.

We provide intellectual and practical learning experiences which are responsive to economic, demographic and technological changes and prepare our students for responsible local and global citizenship.

We present enrichment opportunities in recognition of our special cultural role in the community.

We share institutional governance through decision-making processes that are inclusive and respectful of all participants.

We recognize our public responsibility for sound resource stewardship in order to ensure the stability necessary to meet our commitments to the citizens of the District.

Wed., Feb. 26th, 1992

To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to you to express my desire to be one of the four delegates sent to the recycling conference.

I was recently appointed through Cal S.A.C.C., to be region III's recycling coordinator. I am responsible for organizing the junior colleges in region III, who do not already have a recycling program on their campus, to implement such a program. I will offer them all of my help and will connect them with the proper sources for their recycling needs.

This is a very large and exciting commitment that I have dedicated myself to accomplishing. I need to learn everything there is to know about the business of recycling, therefore I feel if chosen to be one of the delegates sent, I would learn so much invaluable information that would directly help all of the junior colleges in our Cal S.A.C.C. region III.

Sincerely Yours,

Fisher Falkow

- X. ADJOURNMENT

The meeting was adjourned at 4 :50 p.m.

Human Resources are the backbone of any successful organization -- educational institutions are no exception to this rule.

Santa Rosa Junior College has a significant human resources problem right now, and, as you would expect, the college's product, education, will suffer as a result.

Classified employees, the human resources that keep Santa Rosa Junior College functioning day after day after day, have declared impasse in collective bargaining negotiations with the District.

The Classified/District labor contract expired in July of 1991. Since that time, classified employees have continued to perform their duties safely, efficiently, and effectively while they bargain for a new contract.

Because you are a member of this educational community, you are affected by the bargaining impasse between Classified employees and the District. Therefore, you have a right to know the facts of our bargaining dispute.

CLASSIFIED BARGAINING PROPOSALS:
MAXIMIZING HUMAN AND ECONOMIC RESOURCES
IN TIMES OF FISCAL CONSTRAINT

Classified employees are making reasonable economic demands on the District:

FACT: The District Board of Trustees increased funds available for Classified wages by 15% in 1991-92. Classified employees are proposing a 4% wage increase effective February 1, 1992. Savings to District: 11% of budgeted expenditures.

FACT: In response to rising health care premium costs, the Classified have offered to "pre-fund" a portion of next year's health care premiums by foregoing seven months of retroactive pay. Savings to District: $100,000.

FACT: In 1990-91, Classified employees believed District claims that fiscal conservatism was necessary, only to watch higher paid faculty and management receive 2% more in wage increases. Savings to District: Classified employees saved the District $350,000 over the last two years in accepting a lower increase.

FACT: The Board of Trustees has rejected these classified bargaining proposals.

The facts speak for themselves: Classified employees are making creative, reasonable, and economically sound proposals at the bargaining table. The District Board of Trustees are not:

they are simply not willing to recognize and invest in human resources -- District Classified employees -- a textbook case of false economy.

Cost: educational quality at Santa Rosa Junior College.

PERSONNEL DEPARTMENT

Memorandum

Date: March 5, 1992

To: College Community

From: Lee Munson, District Chief Negotiator

Subj: Classified Contract Settlement Update

The Board of Trustees is very concerned about the Classified negotiations progress. Negotiations with SCOPE began on August 8, 1991. At that time SCOPE had forty-two (42) issues they wanted to discuss and the District had thirty-one (31). As you might expect some of the issues were similar.

On December 23, 1991 the SCOPE negotiating team proposed a tentative settlement on a comprehensive proposal which contained forty (40) areas of agreement including:

- District paying full cost of Kaiser and HPR for 1991-92 and re-opener in 1992-93.
- Three-month waiting period for new employees' participation in health benefits.
- Two year contract duration.
- 2.75% general wage increase, effective July 1, 1991.
- Re-opener on wage increase for 1992-93..

The District accepted the agreement and was ready to recommend its approval to the Board of Trustees at the January meeting.

On January 6, 1992, SCOPE advised the District that it was withdrawing the proposal.

On January 14, 1992 SCOPE proposed another comprehensive proposal that included a 4.0% general wage increase, effective February 1, 1992; full coverage by the District for HPR and Kaiser for two years; and elimination of the three month waiting period for new employees. Re-opener on wages for 1992-93.

The District, on January 24, 1992, accepted all of SCOPE's January 14 proposal, except wages for 1991-92--the District proposed a 2.75% increase effective February 1, 1992, and re-opener for wages in 1992-93.

The latest comprehensive proposal that the District provided SCOPE on January 24, 1992 which took into account wages, benefits, and position adjustments this year represents a total cost slightly in excess of 4%.

SCOPE on January 29, 1992 requested appointment of a mediator, claiming six issues in dispute.

The mediator cancelled the March 4, 1992 meeting and has now scheduled March 12 as our first mediation meeting.

CSA TRANSPORTATION CONTEST

WHAT IS THE PROBLEM???

- * There are not enough parking spaces between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the S.R.J.C. campus for the first eight weeks of each semester.
- * There is a growing shortage of parking spaces due to increased enrollments and unit loads.
- * The problem is increasing in the length of time the campus is negatively impacted each year.
- * The problem has been further enhanced with the loss of 1600+ on-street parking spaces over the past two years.
- * After spending $1.9 million and adding 484 new spaces over the past few years, we now have 1116 fewer spaces.

WHAT ARE SOME OF THE MAJOR CONSTRAINTS TO A SOLUTION???

- * Lack of available land on and around the S.R.J.C. campus.
- * The cost of land off-site ranges from $175,000 to $350,000 per acre.
- * Flat surfaces construction costs are $3,000 per space.
- * Parking structure construction is $10,000 to $12,000 per space, if you own the land.
- * The Public Transit System does not adequately meet the needs of students who must move to several locations throughout the day and throughout the county (home to school, school to work, work to home or other errands).
- * By law, parking and transportation programs must be "self-supporting".

WHAT HAVE WE DONE THAT WORKS???

- * The shuttle system to off-site parking lot (Veterans Memorial Building) has had excellent utilization during the first seven to eight weeks of the semester. Over 400 students used the Veterans Memorial Building parking lot at various times. As many as 300+ students and staff have used it on some school days.
- * The Public Transit reduced fare program has seen an increase in participation over the past two years, but it could and should be more successful than at its current state.

WHY DON'T WE RECOMMEND BUILDING A MULTI-STORY PARKING STRUCTURE ON OR NEAR CAMPUS???

- * Parking structures are extremely expensive ($10,000 to 12,000 per space versus $3,000 for flat surface parking).
- * If we were to build a 750 space (3 story) structure on campus, we could net under present circumstances, 500 new spaces since we would have to build on top of an existing lot.
- * Currently, the S.R.J.C. campus and access streets are heavily congested at key times and locations, a multi-story parking structure would increase traffic density and congestion to levels unacceptable to the city and to the college.
- * Given the cost of a new structure, we would need to raise fees well beyond the legal maximum of $80 per year. This would require special legislation.

WHAT DO WE (THE PARKING COMMITTEE) RECOMMEND???

- * ESTABLISH AN ON-GOING PARKING AND TRANSPORTATION PROGRAM, WHICH WILL BE BUILT ON THE ASSUMPTION THAT ECONOMIC CHOICE MAY INDUCE PARKING BEHAVIOR MODIFICATIONS.
- * ESTABLISH THE GOAL OF DIVERTING AT LEAST 1000 SOLO STUDENT DRIVERS FROM THE S.R.J.C. ON CAMPUS LOTS.

HOW CAN WE MEET THESE GOALS???

- * Expand the shuttle system to a 10 month operation and increase daily users to 500.
- * Increase Public Transit ridership to 365 round-trips per day.
- * Develop a two-tier ride share/preferential parking program for students and staff.
- * Adding major bicycle program improvements including additional bike racks and lockers.
- * Acquiring and constructing new parking spaces, over time, at locations which support the shuttle system and/or are within walking distance to the campus.
- * Marketing all Parking and Transportation programs more effectively.
- * Adjusting the Parking and Transportation Program to meet the changing needs students and staff, and to have the Parking and Transportation Program's progress evaluated quarterly by the Parking Committee, which will then report to the Board of Trustees twice per academic year.
- * Keeping in close contact with City and County officials with the hope of assisting students in gaining additional rider discounts.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

March 10, 1992

TO: MEMBERS OF THE MANAGEMENT TEAM
EVERETT TRAVERSO, ACADEMIC SENATE PRESIDENT
DEPARTMENT CHAIRS
OTHER INTERESTED PARTIES

FROM: ROBERT F. AGRELLA
PRESIDENT

During the past 19 months I have spent considerable time reviewing the organizational structure of the college and discussing the structure with members of the administration, Board, faculty, and staff. I have implemented several organizational changes to date, including the separation of the student services unit of the college to be headed by a vice president and the realignment of several reporting relationships affecting my office, administrative services, and business services. None of these changes involved the addition of administrative personnel to the college.

Further study of the organizational structure of the college lead me now to the following observations:

1. The level of administrative assistance in the Academic Affairs unit of the college does not allow sufficient assistance and review in planning and implementing curriculum, budgetary or personnel decisions.
2. The current Instructional Office Assistant Deans are vested with little autonomy in terms of decision making authority and responsibility.
3. Department chairs, in many instances, have had to assume responsibilities because of a mid-management level administrative vacuum, and are too far removed from direct administrative assistance.
4. In general, current administrative staff have little, if any, quality time that can be devoted to sound planning.

5. The Petaluma Center currently has the need for greater structure, and this need will be increased greatly when permanent facilities are opened.
6. Title IX, Title VI, Section 504, and other federally mandated requirements are not clearly defined as to where within the organization compliance responsibilities are vested.
7. Little formal use of the "administrative assistant" concept has been utilized within the college.
8. Confusion exists about the titles and relationship between and among many of the positions commonly referred to as "the Management Team."
9. No administrative training or development program formally exists at the college.
10. A comprehensive research component of the college does not exist.

This list is by no means meant to be complete but rather an overview, from my perspective, of current structural problems that I see with the college's current organization. I also do not intend these observations to be critical of any past or present persons or units of the college. Rather, to me these observations are strong indications of an institution that has grown rapidly in student enrollment and community support but whose infrastructure has failed to keep pace with that growth. Indeed it is my opinion that the college's current structure is insufficient in many ways to adequately meet the demands of an institution even half our size and complexity. At the same time I am fully cognizant that the addition of administrative or support staff needs to be addressed with careful planning and in the most cost effective manner possible.

These observations and brief comments lead me toward further developing the college's organizational structure using the following basic premises:

1. Greater service must be provided to the instructional departments of the organization while maintaining many elements of the current department chair structure.
2. The instructional arena needs to be refined into smaller more manageable units.
3. Reasonable span of control needs to be implemented within various units of the college.

4. Opportunities need to be provided for current staff to enter administration and have reasonable assurance of success.
5. Greater leadership needs to be exerted at all levels of the organization, rather than merely providing custodial care at this time of rapidly changing needs.
6. Greater accountability for decisions needs to be provided throughout the organization.

I want to emphasize that I have not developed nor am I committed to any single structure. I am committed, however, to further study of the structure with the intent of coming to as great a degree of agreement as possible prior to making formal recommendations to the Board of Trustees for its consideration.

I am available to discuss this item with members of the administrative staff, the Academic Senate, and other groups who want to enter into this dialogue. Your written comments are also welcome.

It is my desire to have an initial set of recommendations before the Board in May or June.

Thank you.

Jay Carpenter, Director of Buildings and Grounds, advised us about the following:

Rent out porta-potties so that campus bathrooms are not under pressure and are free as much as possible of public contact. He suggested we have at least one building open, though, to provide wheel-chair accessibility.

We rent out a dumpster for trash. Day Under The Oaks is the following day, and this event required as much of (the campus) dumpster space as possible.

What A.S. Can Do To Support Prop.153...

Legally, the district can not use any district resources to promote any candidate or proposition and is limited to providing fact sheets only (see reverse side).

Due to this limitation, Dr. Agrella has asked the various groups on campus (SCOPE, AFA, AS, etc.) to actively participate in the Prop.153 campaign. The following is an outline of what he has requested.

- 1) Have a representative participate on a Prop. 153 steering committee.
- 2) Help organize a fundraiser to meet SRJC's contribution goal of $4226 (at least!) towards the Prop.153 statewide campaign by May 1st. Note: Prop.153 statewide promotion campaign has a budget of $900,000 to be raised through the three higher ed systems (UC $450,000; CSU $300,000; CCC $150,000)*
- 3) Launch a major "GET OUT THE VOTE" campaign for the June election.

THE BENEFITS: I see at least three benefits to be gained from this. First, and most obvious, we'll get some really cool buildings and equipment that are sorely needed. Second, we would be putting a flame under voter apathy on campus which is one of our primary goals here. And finally, I have Dr. Agrella's pledge to serve CSA breakfast if we raise $1,000 towards the campaign goal (I have witnesses!)

Looks like we need a committee!!!

PROPOSITION 153: A Fact Sheet

What is it?

Proposition 153 is the $900 million Higher Education Facilities bond measure which will be considered by voters on the June ballot.

What will it do for community colleges?

If it passes, Proposition 153 will provide approximately $280 million for each of the three segments of higher education. California's community colleges will utilize $101,380,000 to fund capital outlay projects at 53 of the 70 California Community College Districts for the 1992-93 year. The remainder will be used to fund approved capital outlay projects for 1993-94.

What will Proposition 153 mean for SRJC?

If it passes, Proposition 153 will provide more than $5 million in 1992-93 for the following capital outlay projects at SRJC:

- $2.584 million to construct and equip a new Child Care/Development Center
- $972,000 to purchase equipment for Phase I of the new Petaluma Center
- $2.177 million to acquire the Los Guilucos site for SRJC's Training Center

What happens if Proposition 153 doesn't pass?

If Proposition 153 fails, there will be no state funding for the three SRJC projects listed above. The delay in funding these projects causes even further delays for the other major capital outlay projects which are part of SRJC's Five Year Plan — including construction of a new library and Phase II of the Petaluma Center.

Who is supporting Proposition 153?

Support for Proposition 153 is coming from all three segments of higher education: the University of California, California State University and California Community Colleges.

At the community college level, an organization called "Californians for Community Colleges" has been formed. Jim Young of Kern Community College District and Tom Van Groningen of Yosemite Community College District, with assistance from Donna Hatchett of North Orange Community College District, are spearheading the bond activities for this organization.

A fund raising and political campaign to support the bond measure is being conducted by Californians for Higher Education. The Association of California Community College Administrators (ACCCA) is also supporting the measure, as are leaders of the statewide employee organizations.

Who is opposing Proposition 153?

There is no known opposition at this time.

Council of Student Body Governments

February 28, 1992

Summary of Meeting

- Matriculation Regulations: The revisions to Section 58106, relating to prerequisites, were discussed. With regard to subsection (3), the question was raised whether "shall ensure" was the most appropriate term; the Council felt the most strongest term should be used. It was the consensus of the Council that the regulation be approved.
- Real Estate Scholarship Program Regulations: Currently, there is a $400,000 endowment from the Department of Real Estate for scholarships for students in real estate programs. The Department would like to augment the scholarship fund by $500,000, but would first like assurance that the funds are not underutilized and that disadvantaged students get priority in an effort to encourage underrepresented students to enter the profession. Staff distributed regulations that had been developed by the Real Estate Education Endowment Advisory Committee. It was the consensus of the Council that they needed time to read the regulations and develop a response. Among their concerns was that Section 56606(b) states that eligibility is limited to disadvantaged students. They also felt that "worthy" was a subjective term and should be changed.
- Student Equity Policy: Staff informed the Council that a subcommittee of the Council of Organizations has been established to prepare a proposal using elements of staff's earlier proposal and the Academic Senate's proposal. The next meeting of this subcommittee is scheduled for March 11 at 10 a.m.
- Legislative Update: Staff informed the Council that Vice Chancellor Carole Richard has left the agency and that an outside consultant will be hired until a replacement is found.

For further information, contact Kathy Pulse at (916) 322-1773.

Staff noted that AB 2990 (Costa) is the bill to increase community college tuition to $6 permanently, and that three bills relating to financial aid have been introduced recently. On the national level, several Board of Governors members are going to Washington, D.C., to meet with Congressional members to seek additional funding for the Amnesty program.

Council members expressed serious concern that a student member of the Board of Governors has not yet been appointed and may not be appointed before July. The Council discussed possible ways to establish communications with the Governor in order to expedite an appointment.

- Financial Aid Loan Program: Staff said the Chancellor has asked colleges to consider whether they should continue participating in the Guaranteed Student Loan program, given its major flaws and potential institutional consequences of a high default rate. In its place, the Chancellor proposes increased Pell Grants and College Work-Study funds, especially for first-year students, and federal direct loans for students who have successfully completed their first year of study.
- CSBG Standing Rules: The changes to the Standing Rules requested at the January 16, 1992, meeting have been incorporated. It was the consensus of the Council that the CSBG Standing Rules be approved.
- Chancellor's Office Update: Staff invited Council members to the Chancellor's Office Conference on April 1-3. It was noted that there would be 110 non-repeated workshops offered, focusing on various aspects of community college operations, including vocational education, DSP&S, EOPS, and transfer and articulation. Staff added that it was seeking students, particularly from the Bay Area, to entertain at some of the mealtime functions, and asked Council members to submit names of groups to contact.

There was also a brief discussion of the Governor's budget.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS: The Santa Rosa Junior College Alumni Association works to maintain relations with former SRJC students to enrich its members and the community.

WHEREAS: The Associated Students supports the Alumni Association's efforts.

WHEREAS: The Associated Students wish to form a lasting partnership with the Alumni Association.

WHEREAS: Currently the Alumni Association has no permanent office space on campus.

THEREFORE, LET IT BE RESOLVED, that the Associated Students share the Bearfacts/Poster lab in Pioneer Hall with the Alumni Association.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS the title STUDENT LEADERSHIP CENTER reflects the nature and extent of the program more accurately than Student Activities Office.

WHEREAS the main focus of student development work at SRJC and community civic responsibility as a national trend is in the area of leadership development.

WHEREAS it is the philosophy of the current Student Activities programs to educate about leadership through involvement in activities and shared campus governance.

WHEREAS the Board of Governors and the Chancellor's Office have endorsed specific items encouraging greater student participation in governance appropriate to AB 1725.

WHEREAS the Associated Students of Santa Rosa Junior College are recognized nationally, statewide, and locally as authorities in the field of leadership development and training.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Associated Students of Santa Rosa Junior College do hereby support and appeal to the Sonoma County Junior College District, the change of name of the Student Activities Office to STUDENT LEADERSHIP CENTER.

Since 1989, I travelled across the country to raise the awareness of Americans as to the plight of missing and abused children. My travels, in the past, have been made possible by the generosity of many groups. I am a college student and I cannot foot the bill alone. I have called around and found that the cheapest priced flight to this year's starting point, Bangore, Maine is $498. Last year I asked for, and received your support in the form of a donation to the group that I represent, Missing Children's Help Center. This year, in addition to asking for a $200.00 donation to Missing Children's Help Center, I ask that you support me directly by donating to this cause the sum of $498 to be used for the flight to Maine.

My past performance, the trips in 1989 and in 1991, I believe show my dedication to this cause, if not my dedication to having saddle sores from riding across the country twice.

Please consider this petition in light of the other causes you have supported.

Budget:

$498, flight from SFO to Bangore, Maine, quoted by Santa Ros Travel
$200 donation to the Missing Children's Help Center

total:
total: $698 to be taken from Spring Special Allocations

THANK YOU,
Craig Bradley

 Occup/Cons. & Fam. Studies: D. Fischer (excused), H. Walker (excused)
 P.E.: R. Myers (excused)
 At Large: F. Pugh

GUESTS: R. Agrella, The Global and Intercultural Committee

OPEN FORUM:

1. M. Carpenter raised the question of how the faculty, in general, could support the classified staff in their negotiations with the district.

MINUTES:

The Minutes of March 4, 1992 were m/s/c with the following addition:

M. Carpenter requested that the California Federation of Teachers be listed in the groups mentioned in the March 4, 1992 Minutes as opposing the Voucher Initiative.

REPORTS:

1. E. Traverso reported that the Budget Advisory Committee followed the senate's recommendation and voted to recommend transferring funds from the general reserve to the capital outlay fund, instead of to a parking reserve fund intended for use for off-site Santa Rosa campus parking. (Funds required for parking for the Petaluma Center may still be placed in a separate parking fund). In addition, responding to concerns expressed in the senate about the extent to which the acquisition of off site parking for Santa Rosa has been planned, the Budget Advisory Committee recommended that before property is acquired for off-site parking the district study the cost effectiveness of acquiring property compared to continuing the present rental of facilities.

DISCUSSION:

1. Mission Statement - The Institutional Planning Council requested the Academic Senate submit to its subcommittee on the mission statement suggested revisions of the proposed mission statement. Senators who had consulted with their constituents reported that there was considerable concern with the first statement in the proposed draft. The general consensus was that the first statement should more clearly focus on our mission as an educational institution with high academic standards. The senate reviewed various possible ways of expressing the intent of the first statement that would better reflect our educational mission. The senate executive committee working with D. Sweitzer who is on the IPC mission subcommittee will draft a new first sentence which reflects the comments made in the senate.

Members of the Global and Intercultural Committee were present to discuss their concerns with the mission statement and with the educational goals being prepared by the EPC. The Global and Intercultural Committee will bring their concerns about educational goals directly to the Educational Policies Committee. Their concerns about the mission statement focused on ensuring that the statement commits us to meeting the needs of students and recognizing that the community at large is undergoing change. The senate discussed the extent to which the proposed draft reflects the concerns of the committee. There was a consensus that the present draft does reflect these concerns.

Additional discussion focused on the language of the proposed mission statement. Some people have commented that the proposed language is vague or contains "buzz words". However, others argued that important words like "access", "diversity", "learning experiences", and "shared governance" are important professional concepts for community college teaching and may only seem to be vague and fashionable to those who do not have a thorough understanding of the problems and issues of community college education.

It was the consensus of the senate that the proposed mission statement is very close to what we should have as a final draft of our statement and that it reflects the extensive work done by the IPC mission statement subcommittee. It was decided that the senate would request comments from the faculty on further editing the mission statement to make it more readable and effective. The senate will gather these comments and in a special editing meeting it will produce a revised statement which will then be sent to the IPC subcommittee.

2. Discussion with President Agrella concerning organizational restructuring -

President Agrella visited the senate to discuss his proposed restructuring of some portions of the administration. Senators had received copies of the memo written by Dr. Agrella in which he described the reasons for considering a reorganization at this time. (Copies of this memo can be obtained from the senate Office.)

Dr. Agrella said that he was looking into reorganizing portions of the administration at this time because he wished to have some plans for reorganization completed before the end of the semester. He does not want to develop plans during the summer when most of the faculty are away. Nor does he want to wait until September or October to begin reflecting on reorganizational plans which would most likely not be in place until January 1993. When he first came to the college, he did not wish to initiate any reorganizational changes until he could better understand the organizational structure at SRJC.

He believes that there are many administrative needs in the district which are not being met: better coordination with off-site areas, better supervision of compliance with regulations, better research, and more support for instructional areas. He is not looking to add another layer of administration, but he does intend to create additional administrative positions. He intends to maintain the departmental structure and department chairs. He hopes to strengthen the department chair position by shifting some administrative minutiae away from department chairs to others. He hopes this will allow department chairs to focus on professional matters such as curriculum development, revision of programs and faculty evaluations.

In considering organizational changes, senators suggested that Dr. Agrella consider adding additional classified staff, especially in those areas where high student turn over require extensive retraining of individuals, a procedure for training faculty for administrative position, the use of classified administrative assistants to handle much of the paper work, and the use of reassigned time for faculty to engage in shared governance and activities.

Dr. Agrella indicated that he will share with the faculty any proposed plans for revision which will be formulated. The department chairs will discuss organizational structure at a special meeting on March 31.

Meeting adjourned at 5:10 p.m.

"The challenge of the 90's is to build a sustainable future for all the world's children.

– Fritjof Capra

"There is widespread agreement today that the nineties are a critical decade. The survival of humanity and of the planet are at stake. We are faced with a whole series of global problems, which are harming the biosphere and human life in alarming ways that may soon become irreversible. And yet, there are solutions. Some of them even simple. But they all require a radical shift in our thinking, our perceptions, our values, our lifestyles. In order to reach such a turning point, at a time when it is almost too late, we need a massive campaign of public education.

'MINDWALK' is a contribution to that campaign."

– Fritjof Capra

Author, Scientist, Founder and President of The Elmwood Institute*

A guest speaker from Capra's Elmwood Institute in Berkeley – an ecological think tank – will introduce 'MINDWALK' on April 16th and lead a discussion following the film at Lakeside Cinemas.

We, the students of G.A.I.A. (Global Awareness In Action), would like to express our environmental concerns concerning the cafeteria. We would like CSA to support us in asking that the cafeteria (meaning those who manage and oversee it) adopt a long term environmental policy--in which it will pledge to re-evaluate it's effects upon the environment and make changes accordingly. As it stands today, the cafeteria is environmentally unsound; it produces huge amounts of trash each day, it does not recycle all that it can, and it uses styrofoam.

We have spoken with the management and have had the opportunity to voice our concerns. While they have taken the time to listen to us--we feel that they have not taken us seriously. We hope that by working with the student government, we would have the support necessary to encourage some positive change, and better represent the general student population's environmental concerns. We have recently conducted an informal survey (with over 300 responses) in which 82% of those polled said that they think that there is a problem with the amount of disposable products being used. In addition to this, 89% said that they would like the option of reusable dishes for inside use and unwaxed paper products for outside use.

What is the cafeteria, the Auxiliary Services Committee, and the administration doing to address these and other environmental concerns? Please join us in urging them to think about the cafeteria's long term effects on the environment, and to develop a sound environmental policy.

In addition to this environmental policy, we have two main areas of concern. The first area being the possibility of changing the cafeteria from the wasteful use of disposable products to the use of reusable dishes (with the option of disposable products for outside use). Instead of throwing away garbage bag after garbage bag of used plates and cups...why not have the option of using the same dishes each day? This does mean considerable change, such as the extra burden of washing and clearing these dishes, but there are positive opportunities as well, such as jobs. We propose that our first priority should be to lessen the negative long term damage being inflicted on the environment. Reusable dishes is the answer.

Our second main area of interest would be to encourage the cafeteria to use more environmentally sensitive disposable products, meaning untreated paper products, possibly even made from recycled paper. This would be preferable to the plastic and wax coated products currently in use. These coated products are quite harmful to the environment, they do not decompose. Untreated paper products harm the environment less in that they do decompose, and fewer chemicals are used in producing them.

We ask that CSA support these two proposals, reusable dishes and untreated paper products.

AB 2990 (Costa)
Community College Enrollment Fee

An enrollment fee of $5 per unit (maximum $50 per semester) was initiated in California's community colleges in the Fall semester of 1984. Effective July 1, 1991, a $1 per unit surcharge was approved which brought the total fee to $6 per unit (maximum $60 per semester). AB 2990 (Costa) has been introduced to include the surcharge as part of the ongoing enrollment fee. AB 2990 would not increase the fee but would maintain it at the 1991-92 level. Other information related to AB 2990 includes.

- $1 represents increase of 2.3% per year from 1984 to 1992.
- Continuation of $1 generates $15 million per year.
- $15 million provides access for 10,000 students.
- AB 2990 includes a COLA which provides for a stable, predictable, and moderate increase.
- AB 2990 eliminates the current sunset.
- Community college fees in California are by far the lowest in the nation. The median amount collected nationwide for tuition and fees is over $750.
- Currently, over 230,000 economically disadvantaged students have the enrollment fee waived.
- No loss of students could be determined from the $1 surcharge during 1991-92.

§ 76060.5. Student representation fee; election; support of governmental affairs representatives; district administrative costs; refusal to pay fee

If a student body association has been established at a community college as authorized by Section 76060, the governing body of the association may order that an election be held for the purpose of establishing a student representation fee of one dollar ($1) per semester. The election shall be held in compliance with regulations of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges and shall be open to all regularly enrolled students of the community college. The affirmative vote of two-thirds of the students voting in the election shall be sufficient to establish the fee. However, the election shall not be sufficient to establish the fee unless the number of students who vote in the election equals or exceeds the average of the number of students who voted in the previous three student body association elections.

The student representation fee authorized by this section shall be collected by the officials of the community college, together with all other fees, at the time of registration or before registration and shall be deposited in a separate fiduciary fund established per the California Community Colleges Budget and Accounting Manual for student representation fees. The money collected pursuant to this section shall be expended to provide for the support of governmental affairs representatives who may be stating their positions and viewpoints before city, county, and district governments, and before offices and agencies of the state government. The chief fiscal officer of the community college shall have custody of the money collected pursuant to this section and the money shall be disbursed for the purposes described above upon the order of the governing body of the student body association. The district may retain a portion of the fees collected and deposited pursuant to this section that is equal to the actual cost of administering these fees up to, but not more than, 7 percent.

The student representation fee authorized by this section may be terminated by a majority vote of the students voting in an election held for that purpose. The election shall be called and held in compliance with regulations of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges and shall be open to all regularly enrolled students of the community college.

A student may, for religious, political, financial, or moral reasons, refuse to pay the student representation fee established under this section. The refusal shall be submitted in writing to the college officials at the time the student pays other fees collected by the college officials. The refusal shall be submitted on the same form that is used for collection of fees as provided by the college, which, as determined by the college, shall be as nearly as practical in the same form as a model form prescribed by regulations of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges.

(Added by Stats.1987, c. 1238, § 3. Amended by Stats.1988, c. 1331, § 3.)

CHAPTER 8 STUDENT ORGANIZATION

ARTICLE 1 — STUDENT REPRESENTATION FEE

§ 54801. Calling of Election

The governing body of each student body association authorized by Education Code Section 76060 shall establish procedures for elections conducted for the purpose of collecting a student representation fee, and call an election for such purpose. The election shall, at a minimum, meet the following criteria:

(a) The student body association on each campus shall maintain in its office written information regarding election procedures. Such information shall be made available to the public upon request.

(b) Adequate notice of the election shall be given by the student body association. Adequate notice is deemed to be at least ten school days prior to the election date.

(c) Each election shall be held on a day which counts toward the 175 day requirement as defined in Section 58120 of this part. In instances where an election is conducted for more than one day, those days shall be consecutive and shall be limited to a maximum of five days.

Amended effective 4-5-91.

§ 54803. Termination of Fee

(a) Any student representation fee that has been instituted pursuant to the procedures enumerated in Section 54801 may be terminated by a majority of the students voting in an election called in one of the following two manners:

(1) By placing the issue on the ballot for the next regular associated student body election. The issue shall be placed on the ballot upon receipt of a petition indicating an interest in the termination of the representation fee signed by a majority of the number of student who voted in the election establishing the fee.

(2) Pursuant to procedures pre-established by the student body association for calling such an election. Such procedures shall be available for public inspection during regular business hours.

(b) The election shall be conducted in accordance with the procedures established pursuant to Section 54801.

Amended effective 4-5-91.

§ 54805. Collection of the Fee

District governing boards shall include in the materials given to each student at registration, information pertaining to the representation fee. The form used by a college for the purpose of collecting the fee shall contain, at a minimum, the following:

(a) a statement indicating that the money collected pursuant to this article shall be expended to provide support for students or representatives who may be stating their positions and viewpoints before city, county, and district government, and before offices and agencies of the state and federal government;

(b) the amount of the fee;

(c) a statement informing the students of their right to refuse to pay the fee for religious, political, moral or financial reasons.

Amended effective 4-5-91.

Introduced by Assembly Member Farr

February 21, 1992

An act to amend Section 72246 of the Education Code, relating to postsecondary education, and making an appropriation therefor.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 3571, as introduced, Farr. Community colleges: fees.

(1) Existing law permits the governing board of a district maintaining a community college to require community college students to pay a fee in the total amount of not more than $7.50 for each semester, and $5 for summer school, or $5 for each quarter, for health supervision and services.

This bill would increase the fee for health supervision and services to $10 per semester, and would permit the governing board of a district to proportionately adjust the amount of the fee for term lengths based on a quarter system. The bill would also permit the governing board of each community college district, commencing with the semester, term, or quarter that begins after January 1, 1993, to increase the fee by the same percentage increase as the Implicit Price Deflator for State and Local Government Purchase of Goods and Services, as specified.

(2) Existing law requires any community college district that provided health services during the 1986-87 fiscal year to maintain health services at the level provided during the 1986-87 fiscal year each fiscal year thereafter. Existing law also provides that if the cost to maintain that level of service exceeds a specified limit, the excess cost shall be borne by the community college district.

This bill would, instead, require any community college district that provides health services during the 1991-92 fiscal year, or any subsequent fiscal year, to maintain health services at prescribed levels thereafter.

(3) Existing law requires each community college district to adopt regulations either exempting low-income students from the health services fee or to provide for payment of the fee from other sources.

This bill would delete that provision and would appropriate $1,470,000 from the General Fund to the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges to provide financial aid to low-income students who cannot pay the fee for student health services.

Vote: majority. Appropriation: yes. Fiscal committee: yes. State-mandated local program: no.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

1 SECTION 1. Section 72246 of the Education Code is
2 amended to read:

3 72246. (a) The governing board of a district
4 maintaining a community college may require
5 community college students to pay a fee in the total
6 amount of not more than ~~seven dollars and fifty cents~~
7 ~~($7.50)~~ ten dollars ($10) for each semester; ~~and five~~
8 ~~dollars ($5)~~ for summer school, or five dollars ($5) for 9 ~~each quarter~~ for health supervision and services,
10 including direct or indirect medical and hospitalization
11 services, or the operation of a student health center or 12 centers, authorized by Section 72244, or both. The 13 governing board of a district shall proportionately adjust
14 the amount of the fee for term lengths based upon a 15 quarter system or other alternative system approved by 16 the board of governors, and shall also proportionately
17 adjust the amount of the fee for summer sessions,
18 intersessions, and other short-term courses. In making
19 these adjustments, the governing board of a district may 20 round the per term or per session fee to the nearest 21 dollar.

22 Commencing with the semester, or quarter that begins
23 after January 1, 1993, the governing board of each community college district may increase this fee by the same percentage increase as the Implicit Price Deflator for State and Local Government Purchase of Goods and Services. Whenever that calculation produces an increase of one dollar ($1) above the existing fee, the fee may be increased by one dollar ($1).

(b) If pursuant to this section a fee is required, the governing board of a district shall decide the amount of the fee, if any, that a part-time student is required to pay. The governing board may decide whether the fee shall be mandatory or optional.

(c) The governing board of a district maintaining a community college shall adopt rules and regulations that either exempt low-income students from any fee required pursuant to subdivision (a) or provide for the payment of the fee from other sources. The rules and regulations shall exempt those students receiving financial aid pursuant to Section 72252.1.

~~(d)~~ The governing board of a district maintaining a community college shall adopt rules and regulations that exempt the following students from any fee required pursuant to subdivision (a):

(1) Students who depend exclusively upon prayer for healing in accordance with the teachings of a bona fide religious sect, denomination, or organization.

(2) Students who are attending a community college under an approved apprenticeship training program.

(d) All fees collected pursuant to this section shall be deposited in the fund of the district designated by the California Community Colleges Budget and Accounting Manual. These fees shall be expended only to provide health services.

Authorized expenditures shall not include, among other things, athletic trainers' salaries, athletic insurance, medical supplies for athletics, physical examinations for intercollegiate athletics, ambulance services and the salaries of health professionals for athletic events, any to all students. No student shall be denied a service supported by student health fees on account of participation in athletic programs.

~~(f)~~ Any community college district that provided health services in 1986/87 shall maintain health services at the level provided during the 1986/87 fiscal year in 1987/88 and each fiscal year thereafter. If the cost to maintain that level of service exceeds the limits specified in subdivision (a), the excess cost shall be borne by the community college district.

~~(g)~~ This section shall become operative January 1, 1988.

(c) Any district that provides health services during the 1991-92 fiscal year shall provide the same types of health services and the same level of health services provided during the 1991-92 fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter. Any district that starts a program during the 1992-93 fiscal year, or any fiscal year thereafter, shall provide the same types of health services and the same level of health services provided during the first fiscal year the program started each fiscal year thereafter.

Each district shall endeavor to ensure that the district meets the objective of strengthening the educational process by facilitating the physical, emotional, and social well-being of students through health services that are accessible and of high quality.

The board of governors shall adopt regulations that generally describe the types of health services included in the health service program.

SEC. 2. The sum of one million four hundred seventy thousand dollars ($1,470,000) is appropriated from the General Fund to the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges to provide financial aid to low-income students, as specified in subdivision (a) of Section 72252.1 of the Education Code, who cannot pay the fee established by Section 72246 of the Education Code for student health services.

Central of COLA
Introduced by Assembly Member Costa

February 19, 1992

An act to amend Section 72252 of the Education Code, relating to community college fees.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 2990, as introduced, Costa. Community colleges: fees.

(1) Existing law, which is to be repealed on January 1, 1995, requires the governing board of each community college district to charge each student, except as otherwise specified, a fee of $5 per unit per semester up to a maximum of $50 per semester. Existing law also requires the governing board of each community college district, for the 1991-92 academic year only, to impose a surcharge of $1 per unit per semester up to a maximum of $10 per semester.

This bill would increase the fee to $6 per unit per semester up to a maximum of $60 per semester and would delete the repeal date. The bill also would delete the provisions applicable to the surcharge imposed only for the 1991-92 academic year. The bill would require that the fee be increased, in accordance with the calculation of the Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges, by the same percentage as the Implicit Price Deflator for State and Local Government Purchases of Goods and Services if that calculation produces an increase of $1 above the existing fee. In that case, the fee per unit per semester would be increased by $1 and the maximum fee per semester would be increased by $10. The duties imposed on community college districts in connection with the fee would impose a state-mandated local program.

(2) The California Constitution requires the state to reimburse local agencies and school districts for costs mandated by the state. Statutory provisions establish procedures for making that reimbursement, including the creation of a State Mandates Claims Fund to pay the costs of mandates which do not exceed $1,000,000 statewide and other procedures for claims whose statewide costs exceed $1,000,000.

This bill would provide that, if the Commission on State Mandates determines that this bill contains costs mandated by the state, reimbursement for those costs shall be made pursuant to those statutory procedures and, if the statewide cost does not exceed $1,000,000, shall be made from the State Mandates Claims Fund.

Vote: majority. Appropriation: no. Fiscal committee: yes. State-mandated local program: yes.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

1 SECTION 1. Section 72252 of the Education Code is
2 amended to read:

3 72252. (a) The governing board of each community
4 college district shall charge each student a fee, pursuant 5 to this section.

6 (b) (1) The fee prescribed by this section shall be ~~five~~
7 ~~dollars ($5)~~ six dollars ($6) per unit per semester up to 8 a maximum of ~~fifty dollars ($50)~~ sixty dollars ($60) per 9 semester.

10 (2) ~~For the 1991/92 academic year only, the~~ 11 ~~governing board of each community college district shall,~~ 12 ~~in addition to the fee prescribed in paragraph (1), impose~~
13 ~~a surcharge of one dollar ($1.00) per unit per semester up~~
14 ~~to a maximum of ten dollars ($10) per semester. In~~ 15 ~~accordance with the calculation of the Board of~~ 16 ~~Governors of the California Community Colleges, the fee~~
17 ~~shall be increased by the same percentage as the Implicit~~
18 ~~Price Deflator for State and Local Government~~
19 ~~Purchases of Goods and Services if that calculation~~
20 ~~produces an increase of one dollar ($1) above the existing~~ 21 ~~fee. In that case, the fee per unit per semester shall be~~ 22 ~~increased by one dollar ($1) and the maximum fee per~~

1 semester shall be increased by ten dollars ($10).
2 The chancellor shall proportionately adjust the amount
3 of the fee for term lengths based upon a quarter system
4 and shall also proportionately adjust the amount of the 5 fee for summer sessions, intersessions, and other
6 short-term courses. In making these adjustments, the 7 chancellor may round the per unit fee and the per term
8 or per session fee to the nearest dollar.

9 (c) For the purposes of computing apportionments to 10 community college districts, 98 percent of the revenues
11 received by districts from charging a fee pursuant to this
12 section or from fees defrayed pursuant to subdivision (f)
13 shall be deemed to be local property tax revenue within 14 the meaning of subdivision (b) of Section 84700.

15 (d) The chancellor shall reduce apportionments by up
16 to 10 percent to any district that does not collect the fees
17 prescribed by this section.

18 (e) The fee requirement does not apply to any of the 19 following:

20 (1) Students enrolled in the noncredit courses
21 designated by Section 84711.

22 (2) California State University or University of 23 California students enrolled in remedial classes provided
24 by a community college district on a campus of the 25 University of California or a campus of the California
26 State University, for whom the district claims an 27 attendance apportionment pursuant to an agreement
28 between the district and the California State University
29 or the University of California.

30 (f) The governing board of a community college
31 district may exempt special part-time students admitted
32 pursuant to Section 76001 from the fee requirement.

33 (g) The fee requirements of this section shall be 34 defrayed pursuant to Section 72252.1 for any student who,
35 at the time of enrollment, is a recipient of benefits under 36 the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program,
37 the Supplemental Security Income/State Supplementary
38 Program, or a general assistance program.

39 (h) The fee requirements of this section shall be 40 defrayed pursuant to Section 72252.1 for any student who,

1 at the time of enrollment is a dependent, or surviving
2 spouse who has not remarried, of any member of the 3 California National Guard who, in the line of duty and 4 while in the active service of the state, was killed, died of 5 a disability resulting from an event that occurred while
6 in the active service of the state, or is permanently
7 disabled as a result of an event that occurred while in the 8 active service of the state. "Active service of the state,"
9 for the purposes of this subdivision, means a member of 10 the California National Guard activated pursuant to 11 Section 146 of the Military and Veterans Code.

12 (i) Student financial aid funds appropriated for the 13 purpose of assisting students to pay the fee required by 14 this section may be awarded without regard to the 15 requirements of Chapter 2 (commencing with Section 16 69500) of Part 42.

17 (j) The board of governors shall adopt regulations
18 implementing this section.

19 ~~(k) As used in this section and Section 72252.1, fee~~
20 ~~includes a surcharge.~~

21 ~~(l) This section shall remain in effect only until~~ 22 ~~January 1, 1995, and as of that date is repealed, unless a~~
23 ~~later enacted statute, which is chaptered before January~~
24 ~~1, 1995, deletes or extends that date.~~

25 SEC. 2. Notwithstanding Section 17610 of the 26 Government Code, if the Commission on State Mandates
27 determines that this act contains costs mandated by the 28 state, reimbursement to local agencies and school
29 districts for those costs shall be made pursuant to Part 7
30 (commencing with Section 17500) of Division 4 of Title
31 2 of the Government Code. If the statewide cost of the 32 claim for reimbursement does not exceed one million
33 dollars ($1,000,000), reimbursement shall be made from 34 the State Mandates Claims Fund. Notwithstanding
35 Section 17580 of the Government Code, unless otherwise
36 specified in this act, the provisions of this act shall become 37 operative on the same date that the act takes effect
38 pursuant to the California Constitution.

Subject: Proposed Organizational Structure

I want to thank everyone who provided me with observations, comments, and questions in response to my recent memorandum on the organizational structure of the College. I found the information to be quite helpful in preparing the structure described in the attachments.

This proposed structure is not meant to be definitive or respond to all of the questions that may arise regarding the roles and responsibilities of the various positions that are indicated on it. Rather, it is meant to provide the general organizational parameters within which we will be further developing our structure over the next several years. This structure contains what I believe is necessary for us to function effectively as we grow as an institution and face the numerous current as well as future challenges.

For the area of Academic Affairs I have provided a further detail of the structure indicating which departments I propose to be reporting to the various assistant deans. The configuration of departments was arrived at by blending a number of factors, including number of full and part-time faculty and staff, curriculum, and currently approved positions. At this time I envision that each of the Deans of Instruction will be assigned specific primary coordinating responsibilities for all of Academic Affairs for one or more major activity such as personnel, evaluation, budgeting, scheduling, or facilities. Although the Vice President of Academic Affairs will be held responsible for all of these areas, he will provide primary coordinating responsibility for planning and curriculum. One of the goals of this structure is to allow department chairs to concentrate on curriculum development, faculty evaluation, articulation activities, instructional development, and other associated activities. Clearly the chairs need to continue to play a major role in budgeting, class scheduling, various employment practices, and other functions, but I hope to relieve chairs of many of the time consuming and burdensome aspects of these tasks. It is the responsibility of the instructional deans and assistant deans to support the departments and chairs.

Within the Student Services segment of the College the primary changes involve the realignment of functions under several management positions, the further recognition of Alumni Affairs as an organizational function and responsibility, and the alignment of EOPS as a part of guidance and counseling services.

As indicated on the chart, the addition of a fourth major unit to the organization is anticipated. This unit is to be headed by Dr. Groninga and greatly expands his role in the area of planning, grants, and research. Although the totality of this unit may not emerge immediately, I anticipate that it will play an ever increasing role in assisting the College to meet our future needs.

The provision of support staff within this structure is being studied further by each of the vice presidents. I have asked each of them to review current staffing levels with the intent of shifting positions internally within each of their respective areas whenever possible. Clearly, however, additional staff will be required when this plan is implemented fully.

An additional component of staffing that will also need to be studied is the possible implementation of administrative assistant positions within the structure. I have not addressed these positions at this time since I believe that the vice presidents, deans, and chairs need to have some in-depth discussions on this topic in order to maximize the effectiveness of these positions.

It remains my intent to have an initial recommendation on organizational structure to the Board in May or June. It is also my intent to begin filling various new positions as soon after formal Board approval as possible, within appropriate Affirmative Action regulations and fiscal constraints.

Because it is possible that some of the recruitment to fill positions will occur over the summer months I am asking the Academic Senate to provide me with the names of faculty who will be available during the summer to participate in the hiring process. I would greatly appreciate faculty and staff assistance in this effort.

I am available to meet with the Academic Senate as well as other departments or individuals to hear comments or questions about this proposal. In addition, I would be pleased to receive written comments prior to submitting my formal proposal to the Board of Trustees.

I have reviewed this memo with members of my staff. You should feel free to discuss this memorandum and its contents with them.

Thank you.

NOTES ON ORGANIZATIONAL RESTRUCTURING

1. Solid lines (—) signify line authority, responsibility, and accountability.
2. Dotted lines (· · ·) signify coordinating responsibility and accountability.
3. An asterisk (*) denotes a proposed change in present reporting relationship and/or a new position.
4. The District Compliance Officer shall be responsible for Title IX, Section 504, Title VI, Americans Disability Act (ADA) and other federally mandated programs in coordination with the Personnel Department, DSP&S, EOPS, and other appropriate college departments/individuals.
5. To the greatest extent possible, each of the Deans of Instruction positions are responsible for a blend of various occupational and liberal arts programs and courses. Because of the uniqueness of liberal arts and occupational education traditional "specialists" for each of these areas will be maintained, however.
6. Assistant Deans will be selected for not only administrative potential but commitment to being of help and service to departments. The Assistant Deans could be thought of as "ombudspersons" for the departments. In most cases, they shall be responsible for both occupational and liberal arts programs and courses
7. The Athletic Director shall be responsible to the Vice President for adherence to Commission rules and regulations and will serve as the supervisor for all coaches and trainers. In areas such as reconferencing, rules infractions. etc. both the Vice President and the Director will report to the President.
8. Department Chairs primary responsibilities shall center around curriculum development, instructional leadership and faculty evaluation. In such matters as scheduling and budget development they will work closely with their appropriate Assistant Dean who will be charged with providing assistance and leadership in these areas.
9. Whenever possible, the Assistant Deans on the Santa Rosa campus shall be housed outside Bailey Hall and in proximity to their appropriate department chairs and Service Centers.
10. Partial costs for implementing several of the new administrative positions will come by not filling currently approved administrative positions (1.0 FTE, Manager, Becoming Independent; 0.4 FTE, Director, Instructional Office; and, 0.6 FTE, Director, Evening Programs). Some of the additional costs to implement the structure are anticipated to come from a review of current reassigned time.

A special thank-you to all the people who gave so much time and effort to make Day Under the Oaks 1992 a success.

The department displays were terrific, the live entertainment was wonderful, and the concession booth provided great food & drink. Fortunately the weather cooperated and it was generally a gorgeous day on the campus.

Know the amount of planning that went on behind the scenes to make the day a success and the tremendous amount of labor that went into set up (clean up) of the event. Day Under the Oaks wouldn't happen without the volunteer effort of many, many people on campus, as well as the alumni.

The people who attended yesterday's event saw a beautiful campus which was alive with activity. They had the opportunity to try out their computer labs, to look into telescopes, to view the plants, animals and insects, to view the stars in the Planetarium, taste the food made by our culinary training students, try their skills at foreign languages, see our students work, have the opportunity to purchase some of the students' work, and much, much more!

Thank you all for going out of your way to make everyone feel at home on this campus and to read the excitement about the programs and services SRJC has to offer!

BUDGET LINE ITEM

I would like to bring to your attention the "Earth Day" line item under the "Student Activities/Events/Services" head line in the AS 92-'93 Budget. While the line item was originally labeled "EarthDay Events/Community Events," the Budget committee thought that that could be misunderstood and/or used for other purposes and was too broad. It was changed to "Earth Day."

As it stands now, I think "Earth Day" as a line item is misleading, at least in the context that it was intended. As you may know, Earth Day is used typically for an EarthDay celebration in April sometime. The request and allocation of funds, however, also allows for a(n) event(s) outside of a typical Earth Day in April. Thus, I do not want a potential organizer, looking at next years budget, to think that monies can only be allocated for April.

Therefore, I am proposing a change in the "Earth Day" line to something that will more accurately reflect on environmental awareness event any time in the year. For example, "Environmental Awareness Events" for the line, or, "Environmental Awareness Day(s)," or (?) something else?

The Budget Committee does not want it to be too vague so that it could mean just any sort of environmental funding, and I do not want it to be too specific and limiting to Earth Day.

Associated Student Councils

Dear Fellow Student Leaders:

In order for students to be able to learn and participate in college life and academia, it is essential that their health needs are met. Many of our students have no other means of health care. Without the care they receive through our student health center, they would find themselves desperately in need.

Knowing this, as elected student representatives of Orange Coast College, and after thorough examination of the issue and consultation with the students, we pledge our full support of the student health fee increase. Assembly Bill 3571 would increase the allowable fee by $2.50 per student per semester and require maintenance of effort by colleges that choose to increase their fees.

We feel that this bill is just and necessary to support our student body in meeting their health needs. Passage of this bill would allow our student health center to continue to operate and serve the growing needs of our student population at the reasonable level demanded by our students.

We realize that this is not a good time to increase fees, but health care for our students is too important an issue to neglect just on the basis of political climate. Without the increase of funds allowable by this legislation, our health center will not be able to adequately care for Orange Coast College students. We acknowledge that reality, and we support AB 3571. We hope that you will do the same.

Sincerely,

SUBJECT: Pre Collegiate Basic Skills Unit Limitation (AB 1725 Regulation)
 Re: Draft Policy and Procedures

Background

In accordance with AB 1725 the Board of Governors has mandated (Title 5:55756.5) that Community Colleges implement a policy limiting the number of units a student may earn for remedial courses to a total of 30 semester units. Non credit basic skills are not affected by the regulation as they do not bear credit. Units completed at other colleges are not included in this limit.

Applicable course work is defined by T5 55002 (b) as "precollegiate basic skills courses in reading, writing, computation, learning skills, study skills and ESL which are designated by the community college district as non degree credit courses."

However the regulation also exempts the following students from this 30 unit limitation: students enrolled in one or more ESL courses, and students identified by the district as having a learning disability as defined by T5 56014.

The regulation states that a college may provide a waiver for a specified time period for students who show significant, measurable progress toward the development of appropriate skills for college level courses.

Finally the college is required to establish dismissal and reinstatement procedures for students who reach the 30 unit limit and have not been granted a waiver.

Proposed Policy

"It shall be the policy of the Sonoma County Junior College District to exercise a limit on the number of precollegiate basic skills credit units a student may earn within the district. Such limitation will take into account appropriate exemptions and waivers for certain students as permitted by the Title 5 California Code of Regulations. The college shall establish and publish procedures that will assure implementation of reasonable standards for student notification, dismissal, appeal and reinstatement pursuant to this policy."

Proposed Procedures

1.0 Precollegiate Basic Skills Definition

The precollegiate basic skills courses shall include those non degree credit courses in reading, writing, computation, learning skills, study skills, and English as a Second Language designed to ensure acquisition of those skills necessary for successful completion of associate degree, transfer, and occupational courses.

2.0 Unit Limitation

2.1 A student is permitted to earn a cumulative total of thirty (30) credit units in precollegiate basic skills courses at Santa Rosa Junior College.

2.2 Credit course units transferred from other colleges will not count in the 30 unit limitation.

3.0 Exemptions

All precollegiate basic skills courses taken by students enrolled in an English as a Second Language courses and students identified by the district as having a verified learning disability, acquired brain injury or hearing impairment are exempted from the 30 unit limitation.

4.0 Notification

4.1 Students will be sent notification of the unit limitation policy and waiver procedures when their enrollment reaches or exceeds twenty four (24) units in the designated precollegiate courses.

4.2 Students will not be permitted to enroll in precollegiate basic skills courses above their individual 30 unit limit unless a waiver has been granted.

4.3 Students denied further enrollment in precollegiate basic skills because of the 30 unit limitation will be notified of their status, will be advised of the waiver option, and will be advised of non credit course alternatives.

5.0 Waiver

5.1 Students may submit a petition to the Admissions Office to waive the 30 unit limitation prior to the date the requested course begins.

PROPOSAL...

We the people of this world who recognize an existence upon this planet as a whole, and the ethical right of every person to be a citizen of this planet, through self-determination, believe there should be an avenue of education towards becoming global citizens with full recognition of the United Nations, national, state, local governments, individuals, and the earth itself.

We the people that want application and recognition of global citizenship, if it were made available, believe that it should be accessible through educational institutions. Students in colleges around the world, working with teachers, administrators and the community shall distribute global citizenships to the people in their local areas, along with educational programs, communication networks, and economic opportunities.

L. In every local community there will be a specific educational program to fit the needs of the people learning about the cultures that live there, or have lived there, with emphasis on the indigenous people. Global citizens will design educational programs to learn and share the cultures of the world. Also education about how people can work with the natural systems of the earth.

Redesigning the educational approach to transpose it from being divisive and competitive, into being collective and cooperative, will allow global citizens to learn, teach, and carry out collective and cooperative politics, business, media, health-care, child-care, farming, music, artwork, writing, banking, housing, cooking, and games to come into existence.

LL. Global citizens in a given area will set up a local communication networks with each other and the rest of the world. The networks will utilize telecommunications, study groups and mailing lists, allowing individuals to communicate, mobilize and work together.

LLL. Through education, networking and using renewable energy the global citizens will create an economic opportunity to secure the people involved which would include work in restoration and preservation of the earth, as well as local businesses that would promote environmentally sound manufacturing, distribution and consumption of products. Through all forms of creative expression the global citizens will be able reach out and create a collective sustenance for all people.

SUBJECT: ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

During the past several weeks I have received numerous comments and advice regarding my draft proposal of an organizational structure for the College. Throughout this process I have been impressed with how seriously individuals have taken the draft document. In addition, I have become increasingly aware of the anxiety that the proposal has raised. In some instances this anxiety appears to be based on not having more detailed information about the proposal, the implementation time line, etc. In other instances this anxiety appears to be rooted in prior historical events. Regardless of the reasons I want to try and be sensitive to the issues that have been raised while at the same time begin taking action that I feel is necessary in order to address some of the college's administrative concerns.

Let me begin by stating that it was never my intent to ask the Board of Trustees for the full implementation of a new organizational structure within one fiscal year. As I have repeatedly explained, the draft that I circulated was meant to promote internal discussion and to indicate where we might be at some time in the future — how far in the future depends upon a number of factors including budget, evaluation of how the structure is working as it is initially implemented, problems that arise, etc.

The structure that I proposed was not meant to do away with the departmental structure. I fully recognize the long tradition of reliance on the departmental structure at SRJC and the changes that I proposed were meant to build on this tradition, not eliminate it. What I had hoped is that as a new structure is implemented we could develop the role of the department chair in that structure together, rather than my attempting to define the role solely from my perspective. With additional Assistant Dean positions I envision a structure that generates greater advocacy and support for all departments, particularly those that are in need of it.

In order to address many of the concerns raised during the last several weeks and yet allow me to begin to address the problems and concerns that I see with the present organization I propose that we move forward in a careful preliminary manner. Therefore, in June I will be proposing to the Board of Trustees the establishment of two new Assistant Dean positions and a District Compliance Officer position. Funding for two of these positions will come from management positions funded but not filled currently. Funding for the other position as well as the necessary secretarial support for each of the positions will be provided in the most cost-effective manner possible and with the intent of minimally impacting the General Fund. The filling of these positions will, I believe, give us time during the Fall Semester to further discuss and develop a more comprehensive long-range plan.

I do not see the establishment of these positions affecting the duties and responsibilities of the department chairs for the Fall. The alignment of departments with respect to the Assistant Deans will obviously need to be changed from what I proposed initially and I will be discussing this matter with Dr. Buckley and share with him the comments I have received to date.

I hope that this recommendation to the Board will be seen in the spirit that it is being made. I am quite concerned about the administrative structure of the College, particularly the Academic Affairs unit. As one of California's largest single campus districts we are, by every estimate and calculation, greatly understaffed administratively. While it is certainly not my intent to add administrators merely for the sake of adding new positions, I am convinced that we must begin to move forward in a manner that will give us the flexibility to further study our structure while simultaneously reduce some of the problems that exist currently. At the same time, I do not wish to recommend more comprehensive structural changes when this topic obviously needs further discussion in order for it to be better understood and supported.

Thank you.
